One Discovery
U. S. Wages and Europe
John D., Jr., Travelling
A Lame Amendment

By Arthur Brisbane

Copyright, 1920.

A great waterfall has been discovered on a government reservation in the Cascade Mountains, only forty miles from the big city of Portland, Oregon. No white man had ever reported it.

There is money in that waterfall, lots of it, and soon there will be another discovery within forty miles of Portland, namely, the discovery of a good reason why the government should allow private individuals to own the waterfall and peddle out power for all that the traffic will bear.

Of all we send abroad, more than half now is manufactured articles, locked up in the goods shipped to Europe and hundreds of millions paid to American labor. In the year just past, this country sold to Europe four thousand million dollars' worth of manufactured goods, four times as much as in 1914. Thus, because of the war, labor here is kept employed and Europe is helping to pay its high wages.

But it will not always be thus. France has restored four thousand factories, will soon restore thousands more. All Europe, to escape bankruptcy, is manufacturing feverishly. It soon will be able to supply its own wants, and then sell to us, for our high-priced money, for whatever it can get.

A man working for thirty francs a day across the ocean, at the present rate of exchange, is making less than two dollars in our money. A German mechanic earning fifty marks a day earns less than one dollar of our money.

American workmen and American manufacturers will do well to pay attention to these figures. Incidentally they will be interested in what Mr. Harding says about the necessity of protecting American industries and American workmen. That necessity is coming.

Business men who consider themselves "deep on the inside," will tell you this country at this moment is going through an industrial readjustment of a serious kind. Business men call it "a silent panic." One of the ablest financiers of Wall Street calls it "an orderly panic."

However, we are not quite without resources.

Mr. Williams, Comptroller of the Currency, tells you that we have about seven thousand million dollars in the national banks, to say nothing of the thousands of millions in savings banks, private banks and in circulation—plus five hundred millions hoarded away from banks.

If the banks would stop discouraging new enterprises by dangerous profiteering in usurious interest rates, following the example set by the government through the Federal Reserve Bank, if business men would realize that this is the day of great opportunity and go ahead, instead of shivering like a cat out of water; if workmen, especially, would realize that all a workman can make in a day in the long run is what some other workman produces, we would not need to worry about any "silent" or "orderly' panic.

Mr. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., started with his family on a trip to the West. Many newspapers, and this particular column, announced that the son of the world's richest man, went traveling in a special train of cars, one car fitted up as a gymnasium for the children. The fact is that Mr. Rockefeller traveled in an ordinary Pullman car, which took care of a party of ten. There wasn't any gymnasium car, the gymnasium consisted of one hand ball with which the Rockefeller children played in the corridor of the car.

A statement of the facts may not interest Mr. Rockefeller, but it does interest the public and those that will write history in the future.

Those future writers will understand that there was no violent objection, in this age, to the accumulation of vast sums of money by individuals of the Rockefeller type, for three reasons.

First, in making the money, Mr. Rockefeller developed a gigantic industry and actually reduced prices.

Second, in establishing his business he proved that competition is not necessary to efficiency. Of that proof, people will make good use some day.

Third, men of the Rockefeller type, as young Mr. Rockefeller proves, do not set a bad example in ostentation and squandering. The Rockefeller type doesn't waste human labor by employing vast numbers of servants unnecessarily.

The other day there started for America "one hundred thousand miscellaneous cases of wine, whiskey and other liquors" from French and British ports, addressed to one single wine firm in New York.

These shipments to New York are made with the consent of the government. In Bellevue, New York's biggest hospital, there are three times as many alcoholic cases as there were a year ago. The government of this country seems to have its own perculiar brand of respect for its own Constitutional amendment.

G.O.P. Chairman Shows Liquor Interests' Letter Urging Funds for Governor's Campaign

Chicago, Aug. 31.—Secrets of the major political parties in the conduct of the presidential campaign were laid bare before the Senate sub-committee investigating campaign expenditures.

The close of a day's inquiry conducted in the Federal Building, found Governor James M. Cox's charges of a $15,000,000 Republican "slush" fund flatly and indignantly denied by Will H. Hays, chairman of the Republican National Committee, and a number of counter accusations hurled in the general direction of the Democratic camp.

Outstanding developments of the hearing were:

The counter charge by Chairman Hays that the Democrats planned the raising of $10,000,000 for the 1920 campaign as early as August, 1919.

PONZI'S RIVALS TELL OF RECEIVING MONEY

Charles M. Brightwell, president of the Old Colony Foreign Exchange Company, was the first witness today at the hearing before Receiver John E. Hannigan to determine the "get-rick-quick" concern's assets.

Brightwell, who has been principally known as "Ponzi's rival," said he came to Boston a year and a half ago. He was president of the Langton Oil & Gas Company at No. 89 State street before forming the Old Colony.

The Old Colony was formed July 14, under a declaration of trust. It employed four agents, who got 10 per cent. on investments secured. They took in $10,000 at the State street address, Brightwell said.

Other witnesses called were Mrs. Brightwell, and Raymond Meyers and G. R. Lindblad, directors of the company. William Flaherty appears for the receiver, Robert Gallagher, and Daniel V. McIsaac for the directors.

Last Interview With Lord Mayor MacSweeney

The following article which just reached America by mail contains the last interview with Terence MacSweeney, Lord Mayor of Cork, with an American reporter and was given two hours before he was arrested.

By DOROTHY THOMPSON.
(Copyright, 1920, by the International News Service.)

Cork, Aug. 12 (By Mail—"Surely you occupy a very dangerous position," I said gravely to Terence MacSweeney, lord mayor of this city, in the course of a long exclusive interview.

A strange, almost mystic smile stole over his features, and in his eyes there seemed to be, for just a second, a flash of premonition.

"Yes, I suppose so," he replied, slowly, then added, with another smile, "If I were to think about it."

Two hours after I had left the City Hall it was raided by the military. The Lord Mayor and ten other were arrested. All of them refused to recognise the court-martial before which they were arraigned. MacSweeney declared boldly that the court was illegal and that the only agencies with authority to arrest him or his fellows were those of the "Re-

HAYS OFFERS PROOF OF WHISKEY FUND TO ELECT COX

'WETS' RAISING $10,000,000 FOR RIVALS, HE SAYS

terests, soliciting funds for and urging support of the candidacy of Governor Cox on the ground that the nomination was a "big victory for the liquor interests."

Branding of Governor Cox's charge of a $15,000,000 fund by the Republicans to "buy an underhold on the Presidency" as a "lie."

Admission by Homer S. Cummings, former chairman of the Democratic National Committee, who followed Chairman Hays in a witness, that campaign funds were solicited from Federal employes.

Introduction of a letter to the Iowa postmaster by the secretary of a club of which E. T. Meredith, Secretary of Agriculture, and W. W. Marsh, Democratic national treasurer, were directors, "inviting" donations of 3 per cent. of her salary.

Admission by Chairman Hays that the Republican campaign of 1920 will be financed with a total expenditure of $2,000,000, which includes $1,000,000 expended by the national committee which went out of office at the close of the Republican convention.

At the opening of the hearing there was considerable discussion among members of the committee concerning the scope of the inquiry as to whether it should be limited by the boundaries fixed in a judicial inquisition. Without taking a vote, the committee decided to throw off all restraint and to consider whatever was offered as evidence for what it was worth.

HAYS GIVES G. O. P. PLAN.

Chairman Hays early in the hearing introduced a lengthy statement in which he set forth in detail the Republican plan for raising its party funds, National, State and local, by small popular contributions and that a budget of estimate totaling $8,079,-072 was drawn up.

In this statement also was contained references to newspaper accounts of a statement made by W. D. Jamieson, director of finance of the Democratic Committee, that plans were being made for the raising of a fund of $5,000,000 to $10,000,000 for the 1920 Democratic campaign.

In a prepared statement Mr. Hayes said: "Governor Cox has publicly charged: First—that certain interests were 'banded together to buy the presidency, and that millions had been contributed to the Republican party with sinister intent.' That statement is false.

"Second—There is 'a deliberate plot that has been carried into every county in America in a conspiracy to buy the Presidency of the United States.' That statement is false.

ANSWERS COX'S CHARGES.

"Third—That 'others are writing large checks so that if their puppets or tools get into office and there are industrial controversies they can have the bayonet to enforce their will.' That statement is also false.

"Fourth—That millions have been contributed through a corrupt source in furtherance of a Republican conspiracy to buy an underhold on the presidency; that the Republican fund, not a campaign fund, but a corruption fund, will not be less than $15,000,000. That statement is also false.

"Fifth—That a quota fixing assessments to be raised by certain cities, amounting to over $8,000,000, 'was adopted at a meeting at which Mr. Republican plan for raising its party Upham and I were present.' That charge is also false. No such quotas were ever adopted at any such meeting or at any other time or place.

"He has made other statements charging a 'slush fund' for corrupt purposes, subscribed in the names of dummy contributors, to be used to corrupt the electorate. These statements are also false.

"I now say that each and all of these several charges are absolutely false in what they say and libelous."

REED QUESTIONS HAYS.

Mr. Hays' reference to the newspaper accounts of Mr. Jamieson's statement brought a flood of questions from Senator Reed, Democrat. The Senator demanded that witnesses, rather than "hearsay evidence," be produced. Mr. Hays replied that he could produce Clarence P. Miller, who had investigated the truth of the Jamieson statement, as a witness.

Chairman Hays' statement also charged that the Democrats had organized a "money-raising machine," and that in connection with it government functions were misused. He said he had so advised Senator Glass in a telegram on January 10, 1920.

One of the reports of this misuse of government functions reported to them, Mr. Hays said, was the drawing by the Democratic committee of drafts on national banks in which government bonds were deposited.

When Mr. Hays said that "tons of propaganda" had been sent out at government expense, Senator Reed asked:

DEMANDS PROOF.

"Have you any samples of this literature that you say was sent out at government expense?"

"I have not."

"Do you know where we can get any of these samples?"

"I have an interesting letter in this connection, sent out by one of the departments in Washington a few days ago, which is so pertinent to your inquiry that I will hand it to you. It is dated July 31, 1920, and is from the Treasury Department."

"Who was it sent to?"

"The Comptroller of the Currency. It is apparently not signed."

The Chairman—"Is it with reference to the League of Nations?"

"I think it is. It is dated July 31, 1920, describing possibly what is pertinent to his department. It says: 'Aside from the disturbed and alarming state of affairs in the old world, I am convinced this country's refusal to ratify the peace treaty is responsible—and he makes a campaign argument at the taxpayers' expense by injecting that into his letter.'"

The Chairman—"Was that sent to the banks of the country also?"

TELLS OF BANK DRAFTS.

"Yes, it was; and that was sent to me by Senator McCormick, who received it."

The Chairman—"If there is any argument there for the League of Nations, better put it into the record."

Senator Reed then read an extract from the letter charging that the Democratic National Committee had drawn drafts on banks which had government funds on deposit.

"Who gave you this information that drafts had been drawn by the Democratic National Committee?" was asked.

"George W. Beane, a member of the Republican National Committee from Florida. He said they had told him that they were afraid not to honor them. This man had government funds on deposit and they were afraid the government funds would be withdrawn. I want to say that I got this information a year ago, and that it was wired to Secretary Glass on January 10, 1920."

Hays added:

"I call your attention to this, that we are advised also, and lately, of the effort of certain interests to collect money outside of the Democratic National Committee to aid in the election of Governor Cox. Evidence of this might perhaps now be submitted if desired.

READS "WET" LETTER.

"I have here an original letter that purports to be, and I submit it for your investigation, an original letter signed by George T. Carroll, president of the New Jersey Federation of Liquor interests, which letter is as follows:

"July 22, 1920.

"949 Broad street, Newark N. J.

"Cabaret Bros.

"Dear Sir and Bro.:

"The organized liquor trade of New Jersey has set out to do its part toward the election of James M. Cox as the next President of the United States, and it becomes my duty to call upon you to help.

"More than that, we are going to fight as we never fought before to keep the hirelings of the Anti-Saloon League out of office; to elect Congressmen in the twelve congressional districts of the State who will vote to amend the Volstead Act so as to permit the sale of light wines and beer; to elect Assemblymen and State Senators who will keep New Jersey from following the eighteenth amendment and prevent the passage of any law concurring in the Volstead Act in its present form.

CLAIM COX FOR LIQUOR.

"The nomination of Governor Cox for the presidency by the Democrats is a big victory for our interests, and it can be attributed to a great degree to the activity of our trade organizations here in New Jersey and throughout the nation. Governor Cox is a pronounced wet, and he can be relied upon to approve an amendment to the Volstead act as suggested above. It is now up to our trade organizations to stand unitedly behind the ticket of Cox and Roosevelt and roll up such a majority as will convincingly that the public will is in our favor. Are you going to help? Of course you are.

"This is going to be the greatest political fight in the history of the United States. Your liberty and mine has been taken from us. Our business has been unjustly confiscated. The rights of the people have been seized and they are lined up with us in the mighty struggle—that is soon to be decided by the battle of the ballot.

"The recent decision of the United States Supreme Court has thrown the question of prohibition squarely into politics, where it is the vital issue of the campaign that is now under way. The prohibitionists tried to keep the question out of the campaign. They feared the vote of an outraged and indignant public. It is up to us—members of the organized liquor trade—to force the fight. That is just what we are doing.

"At the bottom of the appeal is—second letter—just as a reminder."

"We have issued the challenge. The Anti-Saloon League is forced to fight. It has made an appeal for a $30,000 fund to elect dry Congressmen, who will uphold the Volstead act, and dry candidates to the State Senate and Assembly to force ratification of the eighteenth amendment on New Jersey. There is no question about the Anti-Saloon League's ability to raise the amount asked. How much can we raise?

"We must have money at once to carry on the work that we have planned. Do not think for a moment that there is plenty of time to give between now and election. The Fall will be too late. Money must be had immediately if we are to maintain our headquarters and continue the propaganda that is necessary in the drive to win public opinion. This is the second appeal that I have sent you. The first you evidently overlooked. I would not bother you now if it were not for the fact that your own interests hang in the balance just as much as mine.

"Let me beg of you to remain loyal to the cause to the finish. Make this your last contribution if you will but give—give something.

EMPHASIZES NEEDS.

"Your record on the roster of your local associations and also on that of the State League shows that you have been loyal and regular in the past. Do keep that record unsullied to the very end. I have always had your co-operation in the past; please let me have it now, for the federation is to put up a bigger fight than it ever made before.

"So that we may know at once just what our resources are, may we not ask you to promptly return the inclosed card, filled out with your remittance?

"Jump in and help us fight. Give as much as you can afford. This is not merely a battle to save your business, but one to preserve something more sacred—namely, your personal liberty.

"Yours fraternally,

"GEORGE T. CARROLL,

"President."

REPRESENTATIVE F. A. BRITTEN of Illinois

"Uncle Sam of Freedom Ridge" in "British Gold" Probe

Chicago, Aug. 31.—Congressman Britten of Chicago today demanded that the Senate committee investigating campaign funds summon officials of the Western Newspaper Union to substantiate his charges that "hundreds of thousands of dollars" was being expended in this country to circulate British propaganda in favor of the League of Nations.

Congressman Britten brought with him a proof of a page sent out by the Western Newspaper Union to the newspapers of the country, offering free a story entitled, "Uncle Sam of Freedom Ridge." This story boosts the League of Nations.

Congressman Britten declared he would ask the sub-committee to call the officials of the Western Newspaper Union to tell who paid the cost, which he estimates at "hundreds of thousands of dollars," to circulate the story throughout the country.

Eat less meat say the doctors

It is a medical belief that most people eat too much meat and that they would be better off if they varied their menus by substituting Cheese dishes for meat.

Cheese is the meat food of milk. A pound of cheese is the concentrated meat food of a gallon of milk. A pound of cheese is equivalent in nutriment to three pounds of lean beef. Cheese will build strong, healthy bodies.

Kraft Cheese in tins is the new way to buy cheese — the sanitary, clean and wholesome way. Kraft Cheese is first blended to insure uniform quality, flavor and texture, then sterilized, packed and sealed in parchment lined tins and sterilized again. No hands touch Kraft Cheese until you open the tin.

Kraft Cheese comes in 8 delicious varieties—Cheddar, Pimento, Chile, Rarebit, Swiss, Roquefort, Camembert and Limburger. At all dealers.

"People often ask me how I have strength for such vigorous sports after my long hours in the studio," said Miss Dana recently. "But extra energy just depends on keeping fit.

"Long ago I discovered how correct bathing with the right soap benefits the health of the skin and the whole body. I use Lifebuoy Health Soap because its fine antiseptic and delightful, rich lather keep my skin in the pink of condition."

Like Miss Dana there are 2,000,000 others in America who are building up health and strength every day by correct bathing with Lifebuoy Health Soap. They know how its big, generous lather, and mild antiseptic invigorate the skin and keep it always active.

Doctors say that an inactive, "lazy" skin is the cause of much discomfort and poor health.

Viola Dana—now celebrated as a star with the Metro Picture Corporation—won her early fame as the legitimate stage with Thomas Jefferson. Her first success of all came when she appeared as a dancer at the age of five. Throughout her career Miss Dana has been an "outdoor" girl—vigorous and skillful in athletics. Her address is Metro Studios, Hollywood, California.

Why a "lazy" skin is a drag on health

We have all wondered why some people are always complaining about the weather.

On warm days they feel hot and uncomfortable. And in the slightest draft they begin to sneeze and catch cold.

A common cause of these troubles—and of many others—is an inactive, "lazy" skin.

Without proper exercise the tiny muscles of the pores and glands in your skin become weak and flabby.

Then your whole skin grows "lazy." You suffer too much from the heat, and catch cold too easily. In addition, a "lazy" skin is always exposed to rashes and eruptions. The vitality of your whole body is lowered.

Doctors have found that proper bathing will easily restore health and vigor to a "lazy" skin.

Keep your skin active—glowing with health

Already many people have found a simple, pleasant way to keep the skin always healthy and active.

A bath in warm water with the rich, bubbling lather of Lifebuoy Health Soap—then a cold sponge-off and a vigorous rub-down—

Try bathing with Lifebuoy yourself and see how it leaves you "tingling" with health all over. It gives your skin just the right kind of exertise. That means a clearer, fresher complexion, too—the radiant, outdoor look that everyone admires.

Notice, too, the clean, wholesome odor of the Health Soap. It contains a mild antiseptic, that purifies and stimulates the skin. The odor tells you why Lifebuoy is known as the "Health Soap."

Start today to make every bath help build health. Take a cake of Lifebuoy home with you. It is on sale at grocers, department and drug stores. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.

LIFEBUOY HEALTH SOAP

Ordinary Soap

Lifebuoy Health Soap

Work up the best possible lather in warm water with some ordinary soap. Then try the same experiment with Lifebuoy. You will find that Lifebuoy makes at least 50% more lather.

150% more lather than ordinary soap

Rich, generous lather—half again as much as with ordinary toilet soaps. That's the result of the Red Palm oils in Lifebuoy.

Try the simple test shown above. See for yourself that Lifebuoy forms at least 50% more lather.

Notice, too, the clean wholesome odor of the Lifebuoy antiseptic. The generous lather carries this cleansing antiseptic right down into the pores of the skin. That is why Lifebuoy keeps your whole skin glowing with health.

For the face and hands

More than any other parts of the body, the face and hands are exposed to dirt and grime. They especially require a soap that forms a heavy, creamy lather, which will loosen the dirt, and carry it away.

Try Lifebuoy the next time you wash your face and hands. Notice how much cleaner—how much cooler the rich Lifebuoy lather makes them feel than ever before.

Watch your skin improve

FORM OF SALUTE.

In passing the reviewing stand on Boston Common a salute will be rendered by uncovering and holding the hat over the left breast.

The receptions preliminary to the Boston farewell tendered General Edwards in South Boston and Brookline brought tears to the eyes of the military idol. At least 25,000 persons, including men of his command in France and other veterans, greeted him in South Boston and a like number participated in the Brookline demonstration.

In Brookline a mounted detail of Legion members escorted the General, who was placed in an automobile, drawn by men who had served under him overseas. The triumphal procession wound its way from Brookline Village to the Cypress street playground, where prolonged cheering delayed the opening remarks of Henry W. Lamb, chairman of the citizens' committee.

Standing with Mrs. Edwards on the platform, the general was then introduced by Philip S. Parker, chairman of the Brookline Board of Selectmen and General John H. Sherburne. The latter prophesied that General Edwards would soon be back in Boston.

FIREWORKS DISPLAY.

A display of fireworks was then set off and one piece showed the general with the two stars of a major-general's rank, pinned on his shoulder. Commander William J. Blake of the Brookline American Legion post presented Edwards, on behalf of the legionaires, with a gold-headed cane. The letters "Y. D.," fashioned by twenty-six sapphires, were inscribed on the case.

The scene in South Boston was similar to that enacted in Brookline. At Marine Park the general was cheered for several minutes and mothers whose sons had fought under General Edwards crowded about him to shake his hand.

Charles S. O'Connor presented Mrs. Edwards with a bouquet of flowers, and in a farewell address lauded the character of the Y. D. leader. The general was accompanied to the park by his aide, Major John W. Hyatt, Captain Paul Hines and other South Boston Y. D. veterans.

General Edwards' Farewell to New England

Brigadier-General Clarence R. Edwards issued the following farewell to New England, the good will of which he appreciates more than the honors bestowed on him by foreign rulers:

I bid farewell to New England with feelings of deep regret. Since my return from overseas there has been showered upon me—and Mrs. Edwards—such honors and privileges from the people here of all classes that I cannot forego the pleasure of saying they are my best decorations.

It is in this centre of learning and culture that I have enjoyed the companionship and counsel of so many people who have bestowed upon me abundantly their kindness and devotion.

Such remembrances of good will and warmth make one feel that there is no greater honor than that which I have received.

I have been decorated by France and Belgium, but I can never forget the personal honors given to me in New England by the stout-hearted lads of the division I commanded and by members of other divisions.

I cannot forget and I esteem them the greatest gifts of my life.

CAR RIDERS ASK FOR DAMAGES

Injured While Riding on the Elevated, They Sue Company for $28,000

Following an accident at Willow and Suffolk streets, Malden, on June 28, when three boys were injured, three suits, each for $5,000, were filed today at East Cambridge against the Empire Bottling Company of Malden.

The boys are Albert Paum, Joseph Paum and Edward Wallace, all of whom are minors and reside in Malden. They were riding behind a team at the time and claim injuries when an auto truck owned by the company struck their rig.

The Boston Elevated was sued for $15,000 by Mrs. Ethelo M. Reeves of Cambridge. She alleged that she was severely injured when the door of a car was closed upon her. Joseph A. Reeves, her husband, sues for $3,000 for the loss of his wife's services and medical expenses.

The Elevated was sued for $5,000 by Benjamin Weder of Malden. He alleged that while on a car in Malden, he was injured owing to the defective condition of the floor.

The Elevated was sued for $5,000 by Lena Kreidberg of Somerville. She said that on May 8 she fell over an obstruction in car aisle and was injured.

William C. Welch of Waltham has been sued for $1,000 by Arthur B. Denny of Brookline. Denny alleges that while driving an automobile in Newton, it was damaged in a collision.

The Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Company was sued for $3,000 by Nicholas Shaheen of Lowell. He said he was injured when a car hit a post.

PETERS TO DECIDE ON TIME-OFF FOR VETERANS

City employes taking part in the parade and demonstration in behalf of Brigadier-General Edwards or who plan to attend the national convention of the American Legion on September 25, may do both without loss of pay unless Mayor Peters decides otherwise.

The city council passed orders requesting the heads of departments not to deduct from the wages of city employes for time so spent. The mayor refused to permit Legioners to attend the State convention without loss of pay, unless they were delegates.

JEWISH CHILDREN GUESTS AT PICNIC

Jewish children from all over Boston, more than 3,000 in number, were guests today at a picnic in Franklin Park given under the auspices of the Federated Jewish Charities for Boston. The program included a pageant depicting the life of Joseph and Jewish folk songs. There were also a track meet, ball games, organized play, refreshments and salutes to the American and Jewish flags. Jewish Boy Scouts acted as ushers.

WOMEN ANGRY AT REGISTRARS

Hundreds in Lynn Unable to Register at the One Desk Provided by the City

Severe criticism was hurled at the city government of Lynn today by women voters for what they said was failure to make adequate provision for the registration of women who desire to vote in the State primaries.

Scores of complaints were received by the city clerk and board of registrars from that portion of the citizency recently enfranchised by the nineteenth amendment. Most of the women made known their grievance over the telephone, but others called on the city officials in person. They did not hesitate to express their indignation.

With only one registration place in the city and only one more day in which to registrar for the primaries, it appeared that hundreds of women would be compelled to forego the exercise of their new right because they could not be accommodated by the registration board.

A double line of registrants on Monday night extended from City Hall, through City Hall square into the street.

Wednesday will be the final day for registration for the primaries. The registration desk will be open from noon to 10 p. m. Ten clerks and the four members of the board of registrars will be on duty.

It is estimated that there are approximately 15,000 women voters in Lynn, about one-fifth of whom have registered.

CHELSEA WIFE DEATH SUSPECT

Injured, but Is Arrested After Husband's Body Is Found in Swamp

By International News Service.

Bridgeport, Ct., Aug. 31.—Following the discovery of the body of George N. Nott in a swamp in Trumbull late yesterday, the police were busy today trying to untangle the mystery surrounding his murder. A trunk is a clew.

Mrs. Nott, his wife, is in the Bridgeport Hospital suffering from injuries believed to have been inflicted by Nott during a quarrel at the Nott home early Sunday morning.

She declares that Elwood B. Wade, a milk man, with whom she had been well acquainted, shot her husband. Her story is supported by John Johnson, Wade's helper.

Wade, Johnson and Mrs. Nott were surprised by Nott in the Nott home early Sunday, and the shooting followed. The body of Nott was removed from the house.

According to the facts so far obtained by the police, Nott had been watching his wife, who is twenty-eight years of age. Nott apparently concealed himself in the home yesterday and when Wade entered a quarrel ensued.

Wade claims that Mrs. Nott did the shooting. Neighbors heard the shots and reported the matter to the police. The police were unable to find any evidence of a murder notwithstanding the fact that Nott had disappeared.

Later the finding of the body resulted in the arrest of Mrs. Nott, Wade and Johnson, who are held pending the investigation of the murder.

Mrs. Nott formerly lived in Chelsea, Mass. Her husband claimed to be a broker.

The police have learned that following the shooting Wade came to the house with a truck.

The trunk was found in an East Side home late yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Nott had told the police that she had placed her effects in it preparatory to going to her mother's home in Chelsea. The trunk was empty when found and the police are certain that it was used in the removal of Nott's body from his home.

British Highball Routs Yankee Cocktail

London, Aug. 31.—The great American cocktail offensive, directed against London, has failed. The old-time English saloons put up a heavy whiskey-and-soda barrage before which the New York storm troops, although cleverly led, beat a disordered retreat.

The American attack was conducted by unemployed Manhattan bartenders. They effected a secret landing in England, bringing with them an abundance and variety of munitions. They were confident that they could win with "liquid fire," but despite the refinement of their mixed array, their propaganda system was weak, and the forces of the Scottish distilleries won an easy victory, without having to call out the English beer and stout reserves.

In issuing an official admission of defeat, Harry Craddock, late of Holland House and Hoffman House, New York, and now of the Savoy Hotel, London, says:

"My New York friends cannot break into this town. The Englishman prefers a long drink. He likes to sip his whiskey and soda, not to toss it off quickly. For that reason he cannot take to cocktails. Later he may change; it's all a matter of education."

Craddock has 200 cocktails on the Savoy wine list, but 90 per cent. of his customers are Americans.

Henna Dust Coats Bare Legs of Modiste

New York, Aug. 31.—A pretty, though shocking fraction of Deauville, France, whose sensational style innovations have been startling the world, arrived aboard the French liner Savoie. She is Mme. Claras, a modiste.

Claras wore no stockings, the only substitute for them being an abundance of henna powder. The skirt was short and there was a flare of rainbow ribbon. Neck and shoulders were bare and were submerged in henna dust.

Mme. Claras took her clothes as a matter of course, and said it was not her intention to shock but to exhibit French styles. She said bare legs and short skirts and henna powder were the rage in France.

RELEASE OF TWO SLAYERS ASKED

Governor and Council to Hear Petitions of Dr. Baker and Silvio Melchiorre

Claiming he has recovered his sanity, Dr. Ralph V. Baker, young Marshfield dentist who killed William M. Cushing four years ago, has appealed to Governor Coolidge for release from Bridgewater State Hospital. Governor Coolidge and the council will hear Baker's petition tomorrow.

Baker's claim is supported by Commissioner George M. Kline, Department of Mental Diseases, who informed the Governor that State physicians found Baker suffered from amnesia when Cushing was killed, but had recovered from "alcoholic psychosis" and could be freed without danger to the community.

Baker, according to the records, drank heavily as a young man, abstained from June, 1916, to September 1917, "and then drank a quart a day until two days before the crime."

He suffered an hallucination that Cushing, a fifty-five-year-old neighbor, was attempting to kill him by injecting germs and slew Cushing with a shotgun. He was acquitted of mruder because of insanity and committed to Bridgewater.

The Council will also hear the pardon application of Silvio Melchiorre, serving a five-to-eight-year sentence at Charlestown for manslaughter. Melchiorre shot and killed Lavario Merolla in a quarrel over a woman.

Woman Enters Fastest Airplane in Race

Airplane "Texas Wildcat," credited with a speed of 220 miles an hour, and Mrs. S. E. J. Cox, wife of the man that created the ship.

Faster than a hurricane and able to outrace any machine that ever came from the hand of man is the airplane "Texas Wildcat." This speed marvel is one of three Texas machines entered for the Gordon Bennett cup in the September races in France.

She has achieved the terrific velocity of 220 miles an hour in secret test flights over Roosevelt Field, L. I. Her owner and creator, S. E. J. Cox, predicts that she will break her own record in the races and attain 300 miles an hour.

Aviators who saw the "Wildcat" in action before she was shipped to France say she literally "tore a hole through the air." The engine is 400-horsepower. The plane is small, bullet-nosed, with short wings.

Grierson, with whom she eloped, is little known outside of the exclusive Brush Hill road set in Milton. He came into Mrs. Denny's life while she was abroad with her husband, Clarence B. Denny of the Somerset Club.

Ruror has it that it was the husband who became so fond of the young man that he took him to his Milton home on his return from abroad.

Today it became known that Mrs. Denny and Grierson vanished several weeks ago.

Mrs. Denny, it was also learned today, wrote her mother, Mrs. Tilden, "that she was never so supremely happy in her liwe."

MILITARY DRILL IN STATE PRISON

Charlestown Inmates Undergo Training Three Days a Week

Military drill has been inaugurated in the State Prison at Charlestown. The inmates are put through the manual of arms by Captain Michael J. Dee of Concord, a veteran of the world war, and former captain of Company L 5th Regiment of the old Massachusetts militia. Captain Dee is attached to the Concord Reformatory and is director of physical training in the department of corrections.

There are morning and afternoon classes Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday at the State Prison. The men are divided into companies and march about the prison yard carrying wooden guns. The classes are made up of the younger men at the institution, mostly under thirty-five years of age. An inmate over sixty years of age and a veteran of the Spanish-American War, made a request of Warden Shattuck that he be allowed to get in line with the boys and go through the military tactics that he was accustomed to some twenty years ago. His request was not granted, as owing to his age the authorities were of the opinion that he could not keep up with the younger men.

Later, the men will be formed into companies and elect officers from among the prisoners, who will drill the companies in the yard. The drill, the authorities say, will keep the men in good physical condition.

Dr. Eaton's Remarks Resented by Provincetown Portuguese Population

Provincetown, Aug. 31.—The five war vessels which have been in Provincetown harbor for the celebration of the tercentenary of the first landing of the Pilgrims sailed today, officially bringing the celebration to a close.

The sailings of the ships, however, did not end the discussion caused by the remarks of Dr. Charles A. Eaton, of the Sulgrave Institution, whose references to the non-English speaking immigrants did not meet with general favor here. As the town's population is chiefly Portuguese, many of whom felt that the remarks were directed at their race, whatever else the celebration may have done it did not increase the good feeling between the descendants of Vasco de Gama, and those of the Mayflower immigrants.

SAY TOWN FOLK SLIGHTED.

There was an undercurrent of feeling, too, that this historic village and the celebration in general had been innocently made the instrument of British propaganda.

Although the town was decorated by members of the local art colony, and a local committee was presumably in charge of the affair, it was pointed out that the townspeople were given comparatively little to do, the representatives of the Sulgrave Institute taking active charge, even to issuing the invitations and arranging for the speakers.

According to booklets it publishes for distribution, the Sulgrave Institution aims to promote better feelings between England and America. It is headed by a committee of Englishmen in London, where it was founded, and by prominent Americans in various parts of this country.

Among the latter are Herbert Hoover, J. P. Morgan, Robert Treat Paine and Lieutenant Godfrey Cabot, who are listed as Boston members.

The activities of the organization at present are concerned with celebrations in all parts of the United States of the landing of the Pilgrims, and, according to its publications, it is doing much propaganda work in schools, institutions and public gatherings to that end.

MARK HISTORIC SPOT.

Chairman Young of the local committee presided at the Sulgrave Institution's exercises held at the base of the Provincetown Monument. At the conclusion of the exercises some sod was turned and a metal casket was buried to mark the spot where the institution will erect a tablet to commemorate the signing of the pact aboard the Mayflower.

Secretary of State Colby in a lengthy speech reviewed the early struggle of the Pilgrims and their fight for civil and religious liberty. He declared that it was significant that the present celebration should follow on the heels of the greatest war in history, pointing out that it was fought for the vindication of the Pilgrims' conception of liberty and popular representation.

Others who spoke were Lieutenant-Governor Cox; Captain Geoffrey Blake, naval attache of the British embassy; John A. Stewart, chairman of the Sulgrave institution; Mrs. George Meynard Minor, and Dr. William H. De Beaufort, acting minister of the Netherlands.

SOUTH BOSTON OIL TANK DECISION SEPTEMBER 13

Politicians who have been making an issue out of the effort of two oil companies to locate oil tanks in South Boston were somewhat disappointed today to learn that the City Council decided to postpone action on a request to disapprove licenses to these companies until Monday, Sept. 13. This will take it safely past primary day. Upon the invitation of Colonel Edward L. Logan, counsel for the Tidewater Oil Company, the council will inspect the premises before taking action.

RECEIVERS QUIZ BANKERS

Officers of Hanover Trust Company Publicly Questioned in Ponzi Case

The receivers hope to establish through these bankers, and others, some line of inquiry which can be pursued with Ponzi at a subsequent hearing for the purpose of uncovering hidden assets, which may be in the shape of large payments to politicians, police or others.

EXPLANATION WANTED.

Officers of the J. R. Poole Company, which Ponzi purchased with the money turned over to him by "investors," and the Napoli Macaroni Manufacturing Company, must also explain before the officials just what money was exchanged in the purchase of stocks in the concerns and what other financial dealings they had with him.

Considerable excitement was caused in the Ponzi case today when it was learned that many of the valuable records bearing on the promoter's business are strangely "missing." The documents include the office records and other papers vitally connected with the case. Ponzi himself has declared that they are no longer in the place where he put them.

It is no secret that many of these records have been stolen from safety deposit vaults in Greater Boston banks where they were placed by the promoter. Their disappearance has served to further handicap the receivers, who are at a loss to explain how the vaults happen to be empty.

SEVERAL UNDER SUSPICION.

The receivers are in possession of the names of every person who had access to the vaults, and to those person who knew the exact contents of the depositories and an investigation will be started at once to throw some light on the mystery. Information has already reached the officials bearing directly on the whereabouts of the missing papers and it is believed that they will summon several person under suspicion at once.

Preparations for the Grand Jury, which Attorney-General Allen requested District Attorney Pelletier to summon tomorrow to probe Ponzi's affairs, were completed today. There was considerable discussion over the situation which may arise if an indictment is found against the promoter. He is now a Federal prisoner and the government officials declare they will not surrender him until his case before the Federal court has been disposed of.

Ponzi's $13,000 limousine has been turned over to the direct custody of the receivers and is in a Boston garage where it will be kept until disposed of by the promoter's trustee.

William H. McMasters, Ponzi's former publicity agent, to whom he said he paid $2,200 for "advertising purposes," was questioned by the receivers regarding his relations with the promoter.

An effort will be made by the officials to obtain the return of about $600 in Ponzi's funds which McMasters retained as his fee for publicity services.

The receivers declare that McMasters "knew" that Ponzi was insolvent, but did not hesitate to take this money, and therefore received a preferred payment. If necessary the receivers intimate they will bring suit to recover this money.

American to Conduct Bicycle Run

Fred St. Onge, who will direct American's bicycle run, and his 35-year-old wheel.

Do you own a bicycle? If so, here is good news for you.

On Sunday afternoon, September 12, the Boston American will conduct a bicycle run from Copley square to Chestnut Hill reservoir for the benefit of its readers, old and young. Because of the success of the big swimming contest on Charles River Basin last Saturday under the auspices of this newspaper when more than 50,000 spectators turned out, it has been decided to hold another sporting event to promote health and pleasure.

The distance is six miles. The start will be made at 2 p. m. and the route will be via Dartmouth street, Commonwealth avenue, Beacon street, Chestnut Hill avenue, around the small Chestnut Hill reservoir to the old bicycle rendezvous, near Beacon street, on the west side of the big reservoir. It is an ideal spot for an outing. Refreshments will be served to every person participating in the run, souvenirs will be distributed and arrangements are under way for a high class entertainment.

No charge will be made to anyone. Everything will be free. The more who take part in the ride the better pleased the American will be.

ST. ONGE TO DIRECT RUN.

Everybody from six years of age up is invited. There will be no restriction as to what kind of a wheel you shall ride. Grandfather may get his old high wheel from the barn or attic, polish it up and come along. He'll be just as welcome as the youth riding the latest model, with coaster brake.

Fred St. Onge of Boston, for thirty-four years a cyclist of renown, will direct the run. St. Onge has been a racer and performer for many years, having appeared in nearly every vaudeville theatre in the world. As he puts it, he has appeared "before all the crowned heads of Europe and all the bald heads of America."

Some years ago he climbed Corey Hill, Brookline, from a standing start in two minutes. The distance is 2,640 feet. That record has never been equalled. He still holds the record of rider and machine going backward half a mile in 1 minute, 37 seconds. That record was made on the old Charles River track.

TAUGHT HELEN KELLER.

St. Onge will be remembered because of his tramp act in vaudeville in which he did everything but go to sleep on a bicycle. Among the racers he has competed against are: Zimmerman, Berlo, Sanger, Butler Brothers, Johnson, Eddie McDuffie, Tyler and Major Taylor. Despite the strenuous races he took part in he is in perfect health and attributes it to the fact that he has ridden a wheel every day during the past thirty-four years. He taught Helen Keller, the famous blind girl, how to ride.

St. Onge will lead the way on the Boston American bicycle run, riding his old-time 54-inch high cycle. You remember those old timers grandfather used to ride! Remember how you thought he'd break his neck every time you saw him mount? The machine owned by St. Onge is thirty-five years old and he can travel eighteen miles an hour on it.

The American believes that hundreds of greater Boston men, women and children will avail themselves of this opportunity to have a good outing. Send in your names, addresses and ages to the Bicycle Editor, Boston American, No. 80 Summer street, Boston, 8, Mass.

The cross-examination of Mrs. Florence Eckert, widow of the slain man, is still going on.

CARMEN VOTE TO STRIKE

Boston & Worcester Trolley Employes May Be Ordered Out Tonight

The employes of the Boston & Worcester Street Railway Company have voted to strike. A count of those voting on the question of a walkout to enforce their demands for a wage increase from 52 to 95 cents an hour showed 144 to 4 favoring strike.

The strike may be called tonight by the international executive committee, in view of the expiration tomorrow of the present working contract. Commuters in fourteen cities and towns will be affected by a tieup.

The company, through its treasurer, Arthur E. Stone, has answered the petition of the men with the declaration that the company cannot afford to pay a greater wage and that it is willing to submit the matter of the financial ability of the company to arbitration. The union answered that it is unwilling to do this, but is willing to submit to arbitration the question of their wage demands.

THOUSANDS LOST BY GREENE CO.

Boston Firm Hit by Bankruptcy Proceedings Against Massachusetts Motors Co.

The H. V. Greene Company of this city lost thousands of dollars through the filing of an involuntary petition in bankruptcy against the Massachusetts Motors Company, Inc., of No. 108 Massachusetts avenue and with offices in Worcester, Springfield and Manchester, N. H.

This corporation had large sums from the Commercial Finance Corporation, which is underwritten by the Greene syndicate, immediately it was learned that the Mutual Finance Corporation, another Greene concern, also faces a heavy loss, although both concerns are not involved, according to John H. Sherburne, counsel and representative.

$500,000 IMPAIRMENT.

An examination of the account of the mutual and commercial corporations reveals that the total financial impairment may reach between $250,000 and $500,000.

A special committee appointed by the stockholders and directors, comprising Samuel L. Powers, George S. Baldwin and Mr. Sherburne, have been investigating both companies for a week and that they have taken over the management of both organizations. They have forbidden further disbursement of funds and are making every effort to obtain all available assets.

The amount that the motors company owns the finance corporation is estimated at approximately $250,000, although much of this liability may be salvaged by the new management in the course of rounding up the assets.

The capital of both corporations, however, has been guaranteed personally by H. V. Greene. Mr. Sherburne declared that it was possible that investors in these concerns would receive every cent back, although he admitted that the affairs of the motors company were in bad shape.

HEARING HELD TODAY.

The John A. Lowell Bank Note Company of No. 147 Franklin street is the principal creditor in the petition filed at the United States court, with a claim for $976. The commercial and mutual corporations, however, are the largest of the preferred creditors. The condition of both organizations was known to the special committee before the petition in bankruptcy was filed.

A hearing in the case was held today.

The statement of the special committee follows in part:

"It was found that in several instances the management had been remiss in not supervising more carefully the collateral pledged as security for loans. It was found, especially in the case of the Commercial Finance Corporation, that one of the companies, to whom they had loaned considerable money, the Massachusetts Motors, Inc., had sold a large number of cars without applying the purchase price against the note which the car secured.

"Certain other business losses were discovered in each of the companies. It was felt that an immediate change in the management of these companies was essential."

CONFESSION NEAR IN PALISADES MYSTERY

New York, Aug. 31.—The clearing up of the mystery surrounding the murder of Mrs. Blanche Bhuis, whose lacerated body was found in the Palisades' underbrush last week, is expected momentarily. Prosecutor Hart of Bergen County, New Jersey, expects to hold in his hands within the next forty-eight hours a confession which will lead to the solution of the mystery and the arrest of the slayer.

A theory that is occupying Hart's attention is that the woman was slain in the Bronx and then taken to the Palisades.

RILEY IGNORES HOME BREW

Malden Judge Asks Public to Aid in Drive Against Bootleggers

Another broadside was sent into the ranks of Malden bootleggers who "sell poisonous, adulterated" liquors by Judge Thomas R. Riley of the Malden District Court in paid advertisements in local papers.

Judge Riley, while admitting that home beer making and distilling is illegal, declares his challenge is directed at the "riff-raff, roughneck, lowbrow bunch around Suffolk square, Broadway Extension and Lower Edgeworth, who are crocodile-weeping at the unenviable notoriety the district is getting through me."

DOESN'T FEAR SLANDER.

The judge, who declared that he would go to Washington to secure an appointment as a prohibition agent unless the Malden bootleggers were cleaned up, warned the illicit liquor sellers in the following advertisement:

"I suppose I ought to preface this advertisement by paying my compliments to the booze hounds and the bootleggers and the poison distillers in their sneaky slandering. I take no place too high a value on the good sense and intelligence of my community to believe it necessary for me to defend myself against the poisoned tongues of the fiends I am trying to drive out of business in this district.

"I know that many individuals are brewing beer at their homes. I am not after them. I know that others are distilling a little rum, whiskey, etc., for their own private consumption. I am not after them. I know that reputable druggists are not over keen in examining prescriptions which they fill with decent liquor. I am not after them. I know there is violation of the law in the above. I am not concerned about it.

DRIVING WIVES CRAZY.

"I am after the things who are taking advantage of their privileges under the law to sell adulterated poisonous stuff that is driving men crazy and wringing the hearts of wives and mothers. I am after the poison-mixers, the brain, nerve and body-destroying spirits distillers, the moonshine booze-makers and particularly the riff raff roughneck, low-brow bunch around Suffolk square, Broadway Extension and Lower Edgeworth, who are crocodile-weeping at the unenviable notoriety the district is getting through me.

"The real manhood and womanhood of those sections and every other section of this district is beyond being disturbed by the slanderous tongues of these sorry fellows, and I enter this appeal to my fellow-citizens, not with any idea of self-defence, but to urge them to help me smash this bunch.

ASK AID IN LIQUOR DRIVE.

"If the manhood and womanhood of this district don't want this loathsome business to shortly revive, this appeal will be answered.

"I appeal to you, decent men and women of Malden, to help me put the flushing smashes over.

"Write me or call up my office and give me any story or evidence you have and I promise you we will see the last of this curse and blight on our community in short order.

"We can stand a little stench for the short time it will take us to remove this cancer.

"No. 9 Pleasant street, Malden."

GERMAN PEOPLE RESIST TAXES

Paralyze Industry by Walkouts When 10 Per Cent. of Wages Is Deducted

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND,
Boston American Staff Correspondent.

Berlin, Aug. 31.—The daring attempt of the government to starve labor into an agreement to a 10 per cent. deduction from wages as income tax by locking the workmen out of the factories is rapidly creating a serious situation.

The general strike which the "income tax boycotters" of Wurttemberg promptly answered the government's challenge is rapidly spreading. Stuttgart is without water, gas, electric light or street car transportation. In Friedrichshaven, Ravensburg and numerous other cities entire industries are at a standstill.

In Hanau communal workers closed all municipal offices and public works. The agitation is spreading to the Ruhr and Westfalen districts.

Employers are rigidly enforcing the deductions, taking refuge in the statement that the government holds them responsible and at the same time they are glad to make labor feel what it means to pay taxes.

The moderate press preaches in vain that government cannot exist without taxes. The radicals are operating with effect, declaring that the rich, not the poor, should pay the taxes and that the government in its collections has begun with the workers and not with the capitalists.

Girl Changes Wedding Date to Cast Vote

By Universal Service.

New York, Aug. 31.—Woman suffrage is new, at least comparatively. Yet already the oldest established institutions are making way for it. One of them is marriage.

The first such making way to become known occurred here when Miss Martha McCook, daughter of the late Colonel John J. McCook, one of the famous "fighting McCooks," changed her wedding date because it conflicted with primary day.

Miss McCook, who will marry Eliot Cross at the country home of her uncle, Charles H. Alexander, at Tuxedo Park, originally selected September 14 for the nuptials. She announced that she would allow nothing, not even her marriage, to interfere with her political duty, and changed the date of her marriage to September 13.

TWO WOULD-BE AUTO BUYERS STEAL CAR

Two young men called on Edward Gallagher at his automobile salesroom on Broadway, Somerville, and told him they were anxious to purchase a machine. After being shown several, one was selected. Gallagher allowed the two to make a test before making payment. Up over the hill on Broadway the pair sped and were soon lost to view. When they did not come back within a reasonable time limit, the Somerville police were notified. Later the machine was recovered from a dealer in West Somerville who had purchased it in good faith. Both young men escaped.

Thin People Need Phosphate Most In Hot Weather

Apt to Take on Good Healthy Flesh Even on Sweltering Days if Pure Phosphate Is Taken with Meals.

Druggists Dispense Nitro-Phosphate Because It is Real Organic Phosphate.

Thin men and women, nervous and constantly out of sorts who want nerve force, energy, ambition and power of endurance, are just the people who will find a helpful friend in Nitro-Phosphate which is undoubtedly just what your nerve, blood and bone cells are begging for.

Phosphorus is a very important element of every living cell in your body. Without the necessary supply, keen minds grow dull and often stupid, ofttime ambition vanishes and a wretched feeling of exhausted power supplants that once-indomitable spirit so necessary to success in these strenuous times.

Nitro-Phosphate feeds the nerves direct with the phosphoric food elements they crave for.

As evidence of results in cases of thin, exhausted people, clinical tests in St. Catherine's Hospital, New York, showed that two patients gained in weight, one 23 pounds and the other 37, while organic phosphate was administered, and both patients claim they have not felt so well and strong in the past twelve years.

Such tests as these lead Frederick S. Kolbe, M. D., Editor-in-Chief of Physicians' "Who's Who," an author of medical text books and member of Authors' Committee of America, Health League, Physicians' Legislative League, N. Y., to remark: "If I had my way Nitro-Phosphate should be prescribed by every doctor and used in every hospital."

And Joseph D. Harrigan, former Visiting Specialist to North Eastern Dispensary, says: "Let those who are weak, thin, nervous, anaemic or run down, take a natural, unadulterated substance such as Nitro-Phosphate and you will soon see some astonishing results in the increase of nerve energy, strength of body and mind and power of endurance."

Nitro-Phosphate (the inexpensive organic phosphate) for those who are anxious to improve their health, is dispensed by all leading druggists in the original package.

MacSWEENEY INTERVIEWED

Denounces Arrest and Imprisonment of Self and Comrades as Illegal

public of Ireland." He refused to accept a sentence. "Dead or alive, I shall be free in a month," he fairly shouted to his captors. "For I shall not take a morsel of food until I am released."

Terence MacSweeney was elected Lord Mayor on the Sinn Fein ticket in an uncontested election following the death of his predecessor, Thomas McCurtain. The latter's mysterious death still is fresh in all minds. All Ireland was agog at the time for a local jury held that he had been foully murdered by the British police and the British government. It brought in a verdict against individual members of the police and against David Lloyd George and Lord French.

MacSweeney is a slender, rather youthful, man with a characteristic South-of-Ireland face, very dark blue eyes, set in a thicket of black lashes, an impulsive mouth and dark, curly hair. He looked tired and a little pale.

I wanted to see a republican court in session and he took me into an adjoining room where a court was sitting in judgment on a dealer who was accused of selling milk deficient in fats.

The Lord Mayor explained to me that whereas the English magistrates were appointed by the administration the republican magistrates were elected by delegates sent to a meeting by popular city organization representing various Sinn Fein bodies.

"The magistrates," he explained, "are not lawyers; they are townspeople from all classes, teachers, business men, tradesmen and farmers. We have had some very amusing decisions, but you would admit their justice."

HELD OPEN COURT.

Commented on the fact that the court was very open. I asked whether he wasn't afraid of it being suppressed under the new coercion bill.

"What does it matter?" he replied. "We shall open again. These courts are not maintained by force. Therefore, force cannot be successfully used against them.

"I remember," continued MacSweeney, "the last session of the English assizes. While the court was sitting the Court House was fortified like a blockhouse. All doors were barred but one. The main entrance was blocked with sand bags, and all the pillars were wreather with barbed wire. It was an ordinary civil session.

"Sometimes very funny things happen in connection with the courts and the sentences. Two men were recently found guilty of petty larceny. The republican court, holding them to be anti-social persons, put them out on an island with three loaves of bread to starve for a while and repent the sins which banishe dthem from association with their fellow-beings.

"The English police heard about it, and since from their viewpoint all republican court decisions are illegal, they went out in a rowboat to rescue the 'illegally' banished prisoners. But great was the refuse of these English police when the prisoners refused to be rescued.

"From the banks of their island they hurled clods of turf and stones at their would-be rescuers."

REPULSED TO BE SAVED.

"'Sure, we were put here by our own people,' they shouted, 'and we won't be rescued by you; we'll only leave when our own people let us.'

"So the police turned back and the men served out their sentence.

"I remember one case where two brothers were in a dispute over the division of a piece of land which had been left them at the death of their father. The quarrel between them grew more and more intense until there was some violence and they were brought into a republican court. The magistrate heard their case and brought the following decision:

"'The elder brother is to divide the land, then the younger brother is to take his choice.'

"I want to ask you about the police murders, Mr. MacSweeney," I said. "The British say that your people have murdered unarmed policemen, and surely these attacks are losing you that good will which you have among the people."

"You must understand," replied the Lord Mayor of Cork, "that we are in a state of war. For the English government to deny it does not alter the facts. The police—the Royal Irish constabulary—never have been a bona fide civil police. They have always been in a measure an army of occupation. They live in barracks, they are armed. We have set up a republic in Ireland. We have used the regular British elections and proportional representation, and returned officials pledged to the republic for 85 per cent. of the entire constituencies of Ireland—all Ireland, mind you, including Ulster."

PEERESS HOTEL OWNER IN RECEIVER'S HANDS

London, Aug. 31.—Gertrude Lady Decies, widow of the fourth Baron Decies and sister-in-law of the present Lady Decies, formerly Vivian Gould of New York, has failed to succeed as a hotel proprietor. A receiving order under the bankruptcy act has just been filed against her.

Her career has brought her into prominence on more than one occasion. Last year she turned her beautiful home at—Ascot into the Scotswood Golf Hotel because she felt that many of the large country houses should be utilized to meet the pressing needs for housing accommodation. The venture did not prosper.

Delegates from Greater Boston will leave the South Station in a special train. As the train passes westward delegates from other cities and towns will join the party. Leo A. Spillane, Massachusetts Department adjutant, is in charge of arrangements.

Sailors Near Riot at Provincetown

Provincetown, Aug. 31.—Enlisted men from ships at anchor in Provincetown harbor participated in a near riot, and threatened to rush the Town Hall, after they had been excluded from the hall in which a public dance was in session and at which officers were present.

A local doctor, a prominent citizen here, incited the trouble by telling the men that no one had the right to exclude them from the hall even if officers were there.

Commander Metcalf of the U. S. S. Florida prevailed upon the men to return to their ships after they had hurled some verbal taunts at the shore patrol.

the night and this morning. Volleys were fired from revolvers and stones were hurled. As quick as the police dispersed the rioters at one locality street fighting broke out somewhere else. Finally the troops took a hand. Soldiers with loaded rifles appeared on the scene and the semblance of rder was restored.

During the night the sky was lurid with the flames of burning houses. Twenty residences were destroyed. The occupants fled. Some were attacked in their flight. Most of the shipworkers are idle, roaming the streets in bands.

The first contingent of troops, rushed here from Curragh barracks, was unable to cope with the disorders, and more reinforcements had to be brought up.

Fire hoses were cut, and the firemen were unable to check the conflagrations.

Looters wrecked saloons, seizing great quantities of whiskey, which was drank on the spot. Maddened by drink, the rioters fought until they collapsed in the street. There was a steady exodus of Sinn Feiners from the city during the morning.

FINE 13 AT LAWRENCE ON GAMBLING CHARGE

Lawrence, Aug. 31.—Thirteen Lawrence and Methuen men who were arrested in a raid at "Mahoney's" on Broadway Methuen, were fined $3 each in the Methuen Police Court on charges of gaming. The five officers who made the raid said, the men were playing poker.

GENUINE DIAMONDS

Weighing 10-100 Carats $12

An unusual offer. One that cannot be duplicated by any wholesale or retail jeweler in this city. This is the season when the world's supply of diamonds come principally from South Africa, and wherever a "find" is made these stones are sent to London to a group of men known as the "London Syndicate." To them all the dealers of the world must go for their raw material. It is the "first sight" that every dealer tries to get. To those who do not get it, it means two or three profits against the dealer. For many years we have been trying through a New York importer for a first sight. At last we have one here on exhibition, and anyone buying a diamond cannot afford to miss it. For instance, we shall offer a large perfect cut brilliant Diamond, weight 10-100 of a carat, set in a solid 14k gold ring, for $12 cash. Every one will be sold with the distinct understanding that the money, every cent of it, will be refunded if any one of them can be duplicated for less than $18 in any store in Boston. Others to be sold with the same understanding at from $6 to $1000.

OFFER BLOOD TO MacSWEENEY

Mayor of Cork, as he lay within a few hours of death by voluntary starvation in Brixton jail.

Cork's "martyr mayor" made his statement in a whisper that was barely audible, but with the same calm courage that has carried him through eighteen days of fasting for the Irish cause.

Rallying from his semi-conscious state shortly before noon, he signified to his sister that he wanted to send an assurance to his friends "outside." He evidently wished to say more than he did, but was unable to continue.

He was so weak that he could only gasp for breath, save when he regained control of his faculties by a tremendous effort of will to send his message. He was so emaciated, according to his sister, that he seemed only skin and bones.

MacSweeney spent part of the morning propped up in bed. He was allowed to look at newspapers, but his effort exhausted him within a minute or two and he fell back.

"A thousand loyal friends stand ready to make the blood sacrifice that would save the Lord Mayor's life by transfusion, but MacSweeney refuses unless the British government releases him from jail unconditionally," said the chaplain.

The head doctor at Brixton jail infirmary after an examination of the Lord Mayor said at 9:30 o'clock that he could hardly live more than a few hours unless fresh and healthy blood were injected into his body.

MacSweeney's sister spent the entire night at his side giving what comfort she could.

Crowds weave restlessly through the streets about the jail. Knots of men and women kneel in prayer. Others gather in groups with ominously whispered threats of what will happen if MacSweeney dies. Great numbers of police are on duty.

King George Sculptor Reduced to Waiter

London, Aug. 31.—Scotland McClure, the sculptor, whose bronze statue of King George in coronation robes now stands in Madras, has given up his art and is now a waiter in a beer hotel at Kingston.

The extinction of the demand of Americans for busts and the diminution of the English demand, so reduced his income that it was insufficient for his day to day needs. He declared the tips he receives in his present job give him a comfortable living.

McClure's handiwork adorns parks, squares and public places throughout the British Empire.

PRESIDENT'S STAKE STAR FEATURE AT GRAND CIRCUIT RACES

BIG CARD FOR 2D DAY MEETING

Opening Day's Program Held Up by Rain—Three Unfinished Events on Today

With the three unfinished races added to the original program of Grand Circuit races set for today at the Readville track, the grandstand and lawn at the famous course were thronged with spectators. Chief interest centred on The President Stake for 2.08 trotters, in which the season's champion money winner, Peter Coley, 2:04¼, started.

Opposed to Valentine's noted trotter were Doctor Nick, 2:04¼, from the Murphy stable; Millie Irwin, 2:07¼, the New England owned mare, and "Pop" Geers' old favorite, Peter June, 2:04¼. The "Grand Old Man of the Trotting Turf" was cheered lustily as he passed the grandstand in scoring down for the race.

Bogalusa went to the post a favorite in the unfinished two-year-old division of the Horse Breeder futurity on his performance of yesterday, while Worthy Chief ruled favorite in the three-year-old class.

The Shuman baseball team will play its last department store game tonight with White at Soldiers Field, Cambridge. Although the Shuman team is out of the race, and its chances of landing in the first division is remote, the team has showed a marked improvement in the past few games.

Great uncertainty has developed as to the ultimate winner of the league, as the Hovey team has two games yet to be played. The Talbot nine has only one contest remaining with the Butler team, and should have little difficulty in winning.

Hovey-Shepard Game to Be Replayed

Manager Shulkin announced today that the protested Hovey-Shepard game will be replayed at Soldiers Field next week. The protested game had been played at the North Brighton playground August 18, but owing to a tie at the end of the seventh inning the game was played an extra inning, contrary to the verbal agreement. The Hovey team won the game in the eighth inning by a 5 to 3 score, but Manager Shulkin declares his nine was forced to take the field after darkness had set in.

The Shepard nine will play Hovey with more than its original strength, as N. J. Cusick, former Mechanics Art High School star, has agreed to hold down first base for Shepard, while Pat Donahue, who injured his side in the last Hovey game, will resume his duties at short. Donahue at present is leading the league at batting and is also conceded to be the premier shortstop of the league.

BE FRANK TO RUN IN BIG HAVRE DE GRACE STAKE

Saratoga, Aug. 31.—William Jennings and G. Ernst Hall of Baltimore will start from Saratoga this Thursday or Friday in special cars that will bear the celebrated four-year-old Be Frank and the less distinguished but nevertheless useful racers Franc Tireur, Sunny Days and Top Sergeant.

They will go straight through to Havre de Grace. At that track Be Frank, the winner last Summer of the Latonia Derby and last Fall of the Latonia Autumn Cup, and the conqueror of the redoubtable Exterminator, will train for the impending renewal of the $10,000 Havre de Grace Handicap race of one mile and a furlong for three-year-old and over, in which Exterminator, Man o' War, Sir Barton, Gnome and several other first-class performers may be opponents.

BIG RECEPTION AWAITS ANNAPOLIS OARSMEN

Annapolis, Md., Aug. 31.—Members of the Naval Academy contingent are greatly elated over the victory of the eight at Antwerp, which they set down as the greatest athletic achievement by any naval athletes. Coach Glendon and his charges will be given a great reception on their return, about September 20. The 800 members of the new fourth class, all the midshipmen now at the academy, had their first chance to celebrate a navy triumph.

A fine outlook for rowing is indicated. Glendon, who has two more years at the academy under his present contract, will have most of his oarsmen for two or more years.

The battle is scheduled to take place on September 18 at the Revere cycle track or some other park or hall in or near Boston.

Nothing doing. Benefit bouts like the above are passe in this neck of the woods.

Gunboat Smith was good—once—but matching him with the present day champion is a joke.

Smith has shown here before. He met Sam Langford a couple of times at the old Arena, and in the last set-to the Gunboat, according to one worthy scribe, lay down like a yellow dog.

This was some five years ago and the crippled craft, Smith, has since stayed pretty much around home ports.

The fans are anxious to see Dempsey in action, but against some worthy opponent.

Carpentier bunked the fans with his little stage act and the boys who finance the frenzied fistic frolics are "off" the "set-up" stuff.

Dempsey, Kearns, Smith and the others directly interested in this little gold brick bout can save a lot of time and worry by giving Boston the go-by.

BRAVES TACKLE REDS AGAIN

Boston Tribe Unable to Put One Over on the World Champions

Cincinnati, Aug. 31.—It's a little early to start giving up hope of the Braves winning more than one game on their last Western trip of the season.

So far they have won only one while losing ten on this journey, but John Watson is back with the club, feeling pretty fair and John will likely be on the hill before the present series with the Reds is wound up tomorrow.

Wildness was to blame for the trouble John Scott and Joe Oeschger encountered. The Reds scored only when these pitchers lost control and had to ease up to get the pill over. Buddy Napier, a Texas League recruit, landed his second straight win for the Reds. He was well supported in the field.

Now that the Red management has disciplined Walter Reuther and asked waivers on Slim Sallee for failure to keep in condition the rest of the Reds are expected to take more interest in the team.

Some of the stars of the club were very sore because of recent actions of Reuther and Sallee and this kept their minds off the game.

KING ALBERT GIVES OUT OLYMPIC PRIZES

Antwerp, Aug. 31.—King Albert of Belgium awarded the winners in the Olympic games their medals at a brilliant festival in the Stadium in which the games were held.

CHICAGOS OUT FOR REVENGE

American League Leaders Not Enthusiastic Over Reception Here by Red Sox

By NICK FLATLEY

Kid Gleason and his Chicago White Sox, who seem fated to repeat their American League triumphs of a year ago, were out at the Fenway today to even up the present series. The Kid et al. were defeated to start with, shut out, 4 to 0, in fact, but as Samuel Jones was doing the tossing they haven't let that worry them a bit. Sam topples the Alabaster Hose as regularly as draw bridges open during rush hours.

The peppery Gleason and his troupe are sailing along at the head of the American League now, and if they can just maintain the even tenor of their way for another month, the gilded glory of the world's series will be theirs.

For today's pastime, Bullet Joseph Bush was due to perform for the natives, with Edward Cicotte on the mound for the enemy. Manager Barrow was back to take charge of his team for the series, after trying to put through a couple of deals for promising minor leaguers over New York way. He didn't get any final results, but 'as 'opes.

JOHN McANDREW HOLDS TITLE

Retains Caddie Championship by Scoring 168 for Two Rounds

By ROBERT E HARLOW.

John McAndrew retained his title as champion golfer of Massachusetts caddies by winning the annual tournament held at the Woodland Golf Club. His brother, Charles, finished second. John used 168 strokes for the 36 holes played, and Charles used 172.

At the end of the first 18 holes it appeared as if the championship might exchange hands, but there was never much doubt that it would remain in the McAndrew family. Charles led the field for the first 18 by shooting a fine round of 81. John took 87 in the morning.

In the second round it was John who did an 18, while Charles needed ten more than he took for his first round. James Lally of the Country Club, runner-up last year, was all over the course, and took 153.

The McAndrew brothers are caddies at Wollaston. The champion is fifteen years old. He lived near the Wollaston course for some years and, as his father was formerly an instructor in golf, these assets have aided him in developing his game.

TENNIS STARS ON 2D ROUND

Many Important Matches Are Slated for Today for National Singles Title

Forest Hills, L. I., Aug. 31.—All of America's internationalists were still survivors when the second round of play for the national tennis singles championship began here today on the courts of the West Side Tennis Club.

It was not regarded as certain, however, that the four would be able to maintain positions as far as the fifth round, for Richard Norris Williams, 2d, former national champion, was extended to the utmost to take his match from Francis T. Hunter.

Today he was scheduled to meet S. Howard Voshell, a veteran of the metropolitan courts, who at times has been ranked with the leaders.

William M. Johnston, playing through champion, will meet what is regarded as a soft spot in Andrew Morgan.

One of the most interesting matches of the day will be that between Clarence J. Griffin, the San Franciscan, and Richard Harte. Griffin has been playing the best tennis of his career, and by many is expected to eliminate the former Harvard captain.

In the other feature matches Harold Throckmorton, Elizabeth, N. J., meets Watson Washburn, and Vincent Richards, the New York youngster, will take on Leonard Beekman.

KRAMMER KAYOS FOX IN OPENING ROUND

Danny Krammer defeated Jimmy Fox of Newark in less than two minutes of fighting at the Commonwealth A. A. show in the Scenic Temple. A hard right hand punch to the solar plexus sent Fox to sleep.

In the first prelim Fred Russo of Somerville disposed of "Flash" Rogers, formerly of New Bedford, in two rounds. Billy Cahill, who was to have met Tommy Corniey of Gloucester, in an eight rounder failed to materialize and the club was unable to secure a sub for him.

BENNETTS VS. LINCOLNS ON DIAMOND TONIGHT

The Bennett A. A. and Lincoln B. B. C. meet in the first of a three-game series at the Lincoln Park, Somerville, at 6 o'clock this evening. The Bennetts won the prelude to the series 3 to 2, when darkness halted the game with the seventh inning incompleted. The Lincolns were leading at the time 5 to 3, but it became so dark that the crowd swarmed on the field, with the Bennetts at the bat. After much confusion, both teams quit, the score reverting back to the sixth inning.

Butler Doubling Up Bike Racing Cards

With the end of the bike season in sight Manager Butler is busy doubling up with some of his banner events which are brought about through the many postponements at the Revere Beach oval. The first of these feature events will be staged tomorrow night and will be known as the international cycling derby.

The race will have Wiley, Carman and Chapman, representing the United States, Didier for France and Colombatto for Italy. The five-cornered race, which is the biggest yet staged at the beach oval, should furnish many thrills for the fans.

The distance will be over the 100 kilometre course, which is sixty-two and one-half miles.

Dickerman to Coach St. Mary's Eleven

Charles A. Dickerman of Somerville, former Princeton football star, has been appointed coach of the eleven at Mt. St. Mary's College, Emmetsburg, Md.

After being graduated from Princeton he was appointed football coach at Somerville High where he had the distinction of turning out two championship elevens in 1916 and in 1917.

At present he is physical director at the Bunker Hill Boys' Club.

Young Monty Wins

New Bedford, Aug. 31.—Young Monty defeated Young Sharkey in a twelve-round bout.

MARTIN PICKED AS WINNER

Battling Terry Made Favorite, 10 to 8, to Defeat Young Montreal Tonight

Armory A. A. Selection
Terry Martin to beat Young Montreal.

By JACK CONWAY.

Young Montreal, brilliant Providence boxer, will try to relieve Terry Martin of his duties as New England bantamweight champion when he meets that worthy in a twelve-round bout at the Armory A. A.'s show at Mechanics Building tonight. Phil Power will be the third man in the ring.

The betting today was 10 to 8 with Martin a favorite. It would not be surprising, however, if wagers were made at even money by post time.

Montreal is faster and a better boxer than Martin. The latter, however, is a strong, rugged fellow with a punch. He is sure to keep forcing the issue every minute he is in the ring, even if he is being outpointed. He always has hopes of turning the tide of battle in his favor by getting over the big punch.

Reisler to Box Michau in Semi-Final

Young Reisler of New York will have Battling Michau of New Orleans as an opponent in the semi-final of eight rounds. Reisler recently fought a draw with Harry Martin, while Michau has been battling in main bouts in the South. He accepted a semi-final match so as to get started here. Tommy Burns, Canadian bantamweight champion, will meet Johnny Curley of Roxbury in another eight-session affair, while Young Jack Britton of Lynn and Young Brown of Dorchester are down to travel six frames.

Londos Opponent for Winner of Bout

Promoter Lou Daro announces that Jim Londos, light-heavyweight champion of the world, will meet the winner of the finish mat bout between Renato Gardini and Bill Demetral which will be staged at the Revere Cycle Track on the afternoon of Labor Day. Gardini and Demetral are each confident of landing this contest.

Waldeck Zbyszko should meet with plenty of opposition when he clashes with Frank Yosko in another finish match.

Alecks Meets Nelson in Quincy Bout

Johnny Alecks, Philadelphia middleweight, has wired Matchmaker Tom Goodwin of the Coliseum A. C. of Quincy that he will arrive in Boston tomorrow. Alecks is booked to clash with Brooklyn Battling Nelson at the Quincy Club Thursday night. These warriors fought a slashing twelve-round go at Brockton.

If Frankie Callahan wins over Lew Tendler in their bout at Lawrence on the afternoon of Labor Day, he will go after a match with Benny Leonard.

WILLIE JACKSON WALLOPS DELMONT

Jersey City, N. J., Aug. 31.—Willie Jackson of New York inflicted severe punishment on Gene Delmont of New Orleans in their twelve-round bout here but failed to knock the game Southern lad out. Delmont had only one round, the seventh, in which he jolted Jackson with several hard blows.

CHAPTER XXV.

CLELAND, tremendously thrilled and excited by the first but faint response to his ardor which he had ever obtained of Stephanie, but uncertain, too, and almost incredulous as to its significance and duration, retained sufficient common sense and self-control to restrain him from pressing matters further.

For Stephanie seemed so listless, so confused, so apparently unable to comprehend herself and these new and deep emotions which threatened her, that he forebore to seize what seemed to be an undue advantage.

They parted very quietly at her studio door, she naively admitting physical fatigue, headache and a natural desire to be down in her darkened room; he to return to his studio, too much upset to work or to eat, later, when the dinner hour drew near.

However, he took his hat and stick and went downstairs. When he rang at her studio Helen admitted him, saying that Stephanie was asleep in her room and had not desired any dinner. So they chatted for a while, and then Cleland took his departure and walked slowly up the street toward the Rochambeau. And the first person he met on University place was Marie Cliff.

Perhaps it was the instinct to make amends to her for the unjust inferences drawn to her discredit a few hours before—perhaps it was the sheer excitement and suddenly renewed hope of Stephanie that incited him. Anyway, his gay greeting and unfeigned cordiality stirred the lonely girl to response, and when they had walked as far as the Beaux Arts, they were quite in the mood to dine together.

She was grateful to be with an agreeable man whom she liked and whom she could trust; his buoyant spirits and happy excitement were grateful for somebody on whom they could be vented.

In that perfumed tumult of music, wine and dancing Jim and Marie Cliff seated themselves, greeted cordially by Louis, the courtly and incomparable, and they dined together luxuriously; sometimes rising to dance between the courses, sometimes joining laughingly in a gay chorus sustained by the orchestra, sometimes, with elbows on the cloth and heads together, chatting happily of nothing in particular.

Seen of All Men

Men here and there bowed to her and to him, some women recognized and greeted them; but they were having much too good and too irresponsible a time together to join others or to invite approaches.

It was all quite harmless—a few moments' pleasure without other significance than that the episode had been born of a young man's high spirits and a young girl's natural relief when her solitude was made gay for her without reproach.

It was about 11 o'clock; Marie, wishing to be fresh for her posing in the morning, reminded him with frank regret that she ought to go.

"I wouldn't care," she said, "except that since I've left the Follies I have to depend on what I earn at Miss Davis' studio. So you don't mind, do you, Mr. Cleland.

"No, of course not. It's been fine, hasn't it?"

"Yes, I've had such a good time! —and you are the nicest of men"—Her voice halted; Cleland, watching her with smiling eyes, saw a sudden alteration of her pretty features. Then he turned to follow her fixed gaze.

"Hello," he said, "there's Harry Belter. Are you looking at him?"

Her face had grown very sober; she withdrew her gaze with a little shrug of indifference, now.

"Yes, I was looking at him," she said quietly.

"I didn't know you knew him."

"Didn't you? . . . Yes, I used to know him."

He laughed:

"The recollection doesn't appear to be very pleasant."

"No."

"Too bad. I like Belter. He and I were at school together. He's enormously clever."

A Revelation

She remained silent.

"He really is. And he is an awfully good fellow at heart—a little pronounced, a trifle tumultuous sometimes, but"——

She said, evenly:

"I know him better than you do, Mr. Cleland."

"Really!"

"Yes——I married him."

Cleland was thunderstruck.

"I was only seventeen," she said calmly. "I was on the stage at the time."

"Good Lord!" he murmured, astounded.

"He never spoke of it to you?"

"Never! I never dreamed"——

"I did. I dreamed." She shrugged her shoulders again, lightly. "But—I awoke very soon. My dream has ended.

"What on earth was the matter?"

"I am afraid you had better ask him," she replied gravely.

"I beg your pardon; I shouldn't have asked that question at all!"

"I didn't mind. . . It is my tragedy—still. But let a man interpret it to men. A woman would not be understood."

"Are you—divorced?"

"No."

Cleland, still deeply astonished, looked across the room at Belter. That young man, very red, sat listening to Badger Spink's interminable chatter—pretending to listen; but his disturbed gaze was turned from time to time on Marie Cliff; and became hideously stony when it shifted to Cleland at moments without a sign of recognition.

"Shall we go?" asked the girl in a low voice.

They rose. A similar impulse seemed to seize Belter, and he got up almost blindly and strode across the floor.

A Tense Scene

Cleland, suddenly confronted at the door of the cloak-room, from which Marie was just emerging, said:

"Hello, Harry," in a rather embarrassed manner.

"Go to hell," replied the latter in a low voice of concentrated fury, and turned on his wife.

"Marie," he said unsteadily, "may I speak to you?"

"Certainly, but not now," replied the girl, who had turned white as a sheet.

Cleland touched the man's arm, which was trembling:

"Better not interfere," he said pleasantly. "The disgrace of a row will be yours, not your wife's."

"What are you doing with my wife?" whispered Belter, his voice shaking with rage.

"I'll tell you, Harry. I'm showing her all the respect and friendship and sympathy that there is in me to show to a charming, sincere young girl. You know the sort of man I am. You ought to know your wife, but evidently you don't. Therefore, your question is superfluous."

Belter drew him abruptly back to the foot of the stairs. "If you're lying I'll kill you!" he said. "Do you understand?"

Belter Apologizes

"Yes. And if you make any yellow scene here, Harry, after I've taken your wife home I'll come back and settle you. Do you understand? For God's sake," he added coldly, "if you've got any breeding, show it now?"

ABOUT OUR GOOD FRIEND King

Copyright, 1920, by The Ledger Syndicate

KING
VARIATIONS — Kingson, Whiting, Whiteing.
RACIAL ORIGIN—English.
SOURCE—A nickname.

WHENCE come the tremendous number of King families which are to be found in every section of this country? One thing is certain. The family names in this group do not come from kings at all.

There is only one instance on record in English history where a person of royal birth adopted the parental name as his surname, and if there is one point to which contemporary historians always pay attention, it is to the doings of their kings. One of the Henrys once did choose to style himself "Fitz-Empress" ("son of the empress"), but he did not pass the name on to his posterity. King as a family name could not have developed from such a source as this without leaving abundant historical record; and save for this one exception, there is no such record.

But among the most important diversions in the lives of the medieval English were the pageants or festivals with which the numerous feasts in the religious calendar were celebrated. Every great nobleman not only had a professional "fool," but at certain seasons his followers would choose a "King of Misrule" to lead the merrymaking, as for instance in the Christmas celebrations. Besides, each village in the land enthroned its "king" and "queen" on May Day.

One old record reads: "We, Adam Bakhous and Harry Nycol, hath made account for the Kenggam (king-game), that tym don William Kempe, Kenge, and Joan Whytebrede, Quen, and all costs deducted, 4 l., 5 s., 0 d."

Naturally those who took the part of kings in such festivals got such nicknames from their neighbors, and in the course of time the nicknames became family names. Whiting and Whiteing are contractions of "White-King."

William King was the first one of the Kings to come over here, although there is no record of him settling anywhere. It is known, however, that he was interested in American fisheries and that he was drowned off Newfoundland. He was married in England about 1642, and his son, James King, came over here and settled at Ipswich, later moving to Suffield, Mass., which afterwards became a part of Connecticut.

Lieutenant Eliphalet King was a noted member of the King family. He was an officer in the Continental army and was in the battle of Bunker Hill and many others.

Major Barnabas King, who fought in the Civil War, was killed at Shiloh, and Colonel Augustine King of the 6th U. S. Infantry laid down his life on the battlefield at Chickamauga. George Cameron King, a great-great-grandson of Lieutenant Eliphalet King, served with Roosevelt's Rough Riders in the war with Spain in 1898.

When Hearts Are Trumps

By Virginia Terhune Van de Water

CHAPTER LIII.

ALTHOUGH Barbara was not considering the wealth of her future husband, Cynthia Paige was. Since John Brandon was abundantly able to dress his wife handsomely, why should Arthur Paige's money be spent on a lavish trousseau for his niece? but when Cynthia suggested this to her brother, she received a reprimand that warned her to avoid this subject.

"What Barbara will have in the future is none of our business," Arthur declared. "She shall leave our home with an outfit suitable for her father's daughter and my niece. Forget your rigid economies so far as she is concerned, Cynthia."

"I will get her what she wishes," since you command it," the sister said stiffly.

She could well promise this, for she knew that if she presented matters in their true light to her niece the child would not be extravagant.

Came to Boston

So when the pair went to Boston to buy such articles as Summerfield could not supply as well as could a larger city, Cynthia had little trouble in curbing the girl's desires.

"Of course your uncle has insisted that you have everything of the best quality," Cynthia said before she and her charge started out on a shopping tour. "You know what he is. He would take off his head and give it to you if you wanted it. But you would not allow it."

"Hardly," Barbara laughed, almost hysterically. Her nerves nowadays were not as steady as they once were.

"Don't be frivolous. You knew perfectly well what I meant, and it is not kind to turn into a jest what I say of your uncle's lavishness. If you appreciated it as you should you could not do that."

"I do appreciate it," the girl protested. "I appreciate it to such an extent that I feel——"

"Well, what do you feel?"

"I feel like a wretch in letting him get my trousseau for me, after what he has done already through all these years. I have been such an expense to him and to you! I should think you would both be glad I am going to get married!" she added passionately.

"We are glad on your account," her aunt said. "You are very ungrateful to speak as if we could have any other pleasure in your leaving us."

"I did not mean to seem ungrateful," Barbara apologized. "I beg your pardon."

While Cynthia regretted this altercation, she was sure that it would result in Barbara's insistence upon economy in the purchase of her clothing.

She was correct, as in most of her surmises with regard to her niece. So sure was the spinster that she had gained her ends that she could permit herself to seem generous.

"Get a handsome quality of satin," she urged in selecting the material for the wedding gown. "No, dear, not that light piece; this more expensive one."

So careful was the child that Cynthia returned to Summerfield after a week in Boston with the consoling assurance that nobody could have shopped more economically.

"Did you buy a lot of pretty things?" Arthur questioned that night at dinner.

"Oh, yes," Barabara said. "A lot of them. I cannot thank you as I wish I could for all"——

Arthur held up a warning hand.

"Hush, hush, child! If you thank me I shall be displeased. I want you to understand that you have a right to everything I have, dear.

Selfish Brute

"Why, do you know, I am such a selfish old brute that, had you decided to live a life of single blessedness, I would have been entirely satisfied, even though I know in my own soul that a woman is better off and happier married than single. Still, if you had never fallen in love—I would not have regretted it."

"Arthur, how can you make such a statement?" Cynthia hastened to interfere. "You know how happy you are in Barbara's prospects, and how safe you feel about her."

She cast a glance of admonition across the table, and her brother obeyed it as well as he was able. He was accustomed to his sister's glances, and obeying them had become a habit of years with him.

"Of course, I am happy for Bab, and in the fact that her future is assured—so far as one may predict," he admitted. "But what I meant is that I had never thought of her getting married until John Brandon paid her attention. It was one of the things that I took for granted must happen some time—but I never was willing to dwell on it even in thought. Which, as I have just said, only proves what a selfish old uncle you have, dear child."

Barbara was silent for the rest of the meal.

After all, had Uncle Arthur not been worried and anxious about what was to become of her?

Could Aunt Cynthia have been mistaken?

As a Woman Thinketh

Dear Old Darling,

So glad to hear that you are well and happy—but not too happy without me.

Today the water was fine, and I went in swimming.

Swam and swam and SWAM—almost out to the raft!

(Don't forget to send me those bathing shoes you promised to get me.)

A lady paid me the most wonderful compliment this morning.

She said, "Oh, look at that YOUNG lady SWIMMING!"

Wasn't it sweet?

After that, I fairly floated!

By the way, dear, don't forget to see about the new electric fixtures—and be sure to have the carpenter fix that door to the pantry.

And, oh, yes, don't forget to pay the fire insurance!

The weather has been simply superb, and I expect to go in bathing again tomorrow.

Don't forget to have Delia take the rugs up on the roof and sun them to keep out the moths.

Don't get overheated, and catch cold. (Your cough medicine is on the top shelf.)

And don't forget to send your dinner clothes to the cleaner's—and your blue suit, and the white flannel trousers.

Don't forget to feed "Kittums," and water the ferns, and close the windows, when you go out every morning.

Don't forget to order the coal.

Don't forget

Your loving Wifie.

Dear Girl,

Everything's all right—This is a sizzling hot day—You're lucky to be out of town—Miss you so much—Have a good time—Don't take any bad money—This is an awful pen—Forgive haste—Bye-Bye—

Your devoted
Tom.

And yet,
BEFORE they were married,
He wrote her "perfect classics," and quoted reams of Browning,
And SHE wrote him "Prose Poems,"
That would have made Amy Lowell pink with envy!
Ah, me!
From Romanticist to Realist,
From Idealist to Materialist,
Is but a step—
The little step from the church door to the altar!

The Adventures of Ann

By Hal Coffman

CHAPTER XII.

ANN did not appreciate what Frank had done for her in protecting her name from the busybodies that were beginning to talk because of Harwood's visit to her home and offer to pay for her singing lessons.

Claire, in her simple innocence, had told one of the neighbors about the rich man who was going to educate Ann, and this had of course travelled like wildfire among their acquaintances.

Frank felt terrible after what Ann had said to him, for these were the first real harsh words that had ever come between them. Frank loved Ann dearly, and hoped some day, when his finances were in better shape, that they would be married. They had been friends since childhood, and now the lad was all broken up because of Ann's attitude toward him. Ann had not told Claire or Betty of her words with Frank, so they were in ignorance of it.

The mysterious woman of the top floor came downstairs to tell Ann that Harwood's car would be there that afternoon to take them to Ann's first lesson with Savoni. When Ann heard this she was so excited she could hardly dress in anticipation of the great event.

"Just think. I'm really going to see the great Savoni, and he is going to teach me to sing. My goodness, I read in the paper that he got $2,000 for one performance."

And so she jabbered on as she hurriedly dressed and went on upstairs with the mysterious woman to await the arrival of Harwood's car.

Household Suggestions

When using marking ink for linen, first mark the initials on the linen with an ordinary lead pencil, and then trace with the ink over the pencil marks. The pencil will prevent the ink from spreading and in that way giving the linen a blotted appearance.

* * *

To prevent cakes from burning, well grease the tins with lard—not butter—and sprinkle lightly with flour.

* * *

Scraps of bread should never be allowed to accumulate in the bread-pan. They should be browned in the oven for brown crumbs.

* * *

Tht little black speck that appears on silver articles that have ben laid aside for some time should be cleaned with a paste of whiting, free from grit, and olive oil. Then slightly polish with a piece of old silk. In some cases the specks and stains are very obstinate, and it will be best to smear the article with the paste and allow it to remain on for a considerable time. It should then be wiped off and polished with either a piece of silk or a soft piece of chamois leather and rouge.

A piece of velvet or plush will give a finer polish to a black-leaded grate than the brush in common use. Besides causing less dust it needs less exertion.

Fill Your Blood With Iron If You Want To Be Strong

WITH PLENTY OF ENERGY AND POWER

Says Physician—Explains How Organic Iron Like Nuxated Iron Often Increases the Strength of Weak, Nervous, Run-down People In Two Weeks' Time.

You cannot expect to forge ahead in life with plenty of energy and power if your blood is thin and watery any more than you can hope to run an automobile on water instead of gasolene. It takes pure, red blood—rich in iron—to keep the human machine working right. Without iron your every action lacks power, your red blood corpuscles die by millions, the strength goes from your body and you drop among the weaklings and failures.

"But when such men and women supply the right kind of iron to their blood, a most surprising change often takes place," says Dr. John J. Van Horne, formerly Medical Inspector and Clinical Physician on the Board of Health of New York City. "The weak, colorless blood which had been moving sluggishly in the veins becomes rich and red and courses through the body, building healthy tissue, giving renewed force and increased strength. Without this rich, red blood with plenty of iron in it, there can be no physical perfection or force to carry on one's work. Yet to take the wrong kind of iron may prove worse than useless just as the wrong sort of food will often fail to give the proper nourishment. Organic iron—Nuxated Iron—by enriching the blood and creating new blood cells, strengthens the nerves, rebuilds the muscles and helps instill the whole system with fresh vigor and endurance whether the person be young or old. I strongly advise every man or woman who is fagged out by worry, work and other strains to build up strength, and health by taking organic iron—Nuxated Iron—for I consider it one of the foremost blood and body-builders, the best to which I have ever had recourse."

Dr. James Francis Sullivan, formerly physician of Bellevue Hospital (Outdoor Dept.) New York and the Westchester County Hospital says: "I have strongly emphasized the great necessity of physicians making blood examinations of their weak, anaemic, run-down patients. Thousands of persons go on year after year suffering from physical weakness and a highly nervous condition due to lack of sufficient iron in their red blood corpuscles. To supply this iron deficiency and to help build strong, healthier men and women, better able physically to meet the problems of everyday life, I believe physicians should at every opportunity prescribe organic iron—Nuxated Iron—for in my experience it is one of the best tonic and red blood builders known to medical science."

If you are not strong or well, you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of ordinary Nuxated Iron three times per day for two weeks, then test your strength again and see how much you have gained.

Manufacturers' Note: Nuxated Iron, which is recommended above, is not a secret remedy but one which is well known to druggists everywhere. Unlike the older inorganic iron products it is easily assimilated and does not injure the teeth, make them black, nor upset the stomach. Each tablet of genuine Nuxated Iron is stamped as follows N I and the words Nuxated Iron are stamped into each bottle, so that the public may not be led into accepting inferior substitutes. The manufacturers guarantee successful and entirely satisfactory results to every purchaser or they will refund your money. It is dispensed by all good druggists.

New Hair Growth After BALDNESS

On legal affidavit, John Hart Brittain, business man, certified to this: "My head at the top and back was absolutely bald. The scalp was shiny. An expert said that he thought the hair roots were extinct, and there was no hope of my ever having a new hair growth.

"Yet now, at an age over 66, I have a luxuriant growth of soft, strong, lustrous hair! No trace of baldness. The pictures shown here are from my photographs." Mr. Brittain certified further:

After hair growth.

INDIAN'S SECRET OF HAIR GROWTH

"At a time when I had become discouraged at trying various hair lotions, tonics, specialists' treatments, etc., I came across, in my travels, a Cherokee Indian 'medicine man' who had an elixir that he asseverated would grow my hair. Although I had but little faith, I gave it a trial. To my amazement a light fuzz soon appeared. It developed, day by day, into a healthy growth, and ere long my hair was as prolific as in my youthful days.

That I was astonished and happy is expressing my state of mind mildly.

Obviously, the hair roots had not been dead, but were dormant in the scalp, awaiting the fertilizing potency of the mysterious pomade.

I negotiated for and came into possession of the principle for preparing this mysterious elixir, now called Kotalko, and later had the recipe put into practical form by a chemist.

That my own hair growth was permanent has been amply proved."

How YOU May Grow YOUR Hair

It has been proved in very many cases that hair roots did not die even when the hair fell out through dandruff, fever, alopecia areata or certain other hair or scalp disorders. Miss A. D. Otto reports: "About 8 years ago my hair began to fall out until my scalp in spots was almost entirely bald. I used everything that was recommended but was always disappointed until at last I came across Kotalko. My bald spots are being covered now; the growth is already about three inches." G. W. Mitchell reports: "I had spots completely bald, over which hair is now growing since I used Kotalko." Mrs. Matilda Maxwell reports: "The whole front of my head was as bald as the palm of my hand for about 15 years. Since using Kotalko, hair is growing all over the place that was bald." Many more splendid reports from satisfied users.

"SHAVINGS" IS QUAINT PLAY OF CAPE COD

By FRED J. McISAAC.

"Shavings," a Cape Cod comedy, based on Joseph C. Lincoln's story of that name, was presented at the Tremont theatre last night by Henry W. Savage. The dramatization was made by Pauline Phelps and Marion Short.

It happens that I never read Lincoln's book, but it was obvious that most of the audience had done so, as they recognized their favorite lines and had a good time generally.

As a play "Shavings" is old fashioned rural drama, despite its modern trimmings of aviation officers and aeroplanes. It is the familiar and sure fire formula of a lot of quaint characters, a mysterious and forlorn heroine, and a village mean man.

Colonel Savage has provided a very competent cast. Charles Dow Clark can be meaner than anybody in the world when he is cast as a mean person. James Bradbury is one of the finest character actors in the business. George Neville is unique among "rube" comedians.

Harry Beresford has made of the quaint, fantastic and wholesome Jed Winslow, nicknamed "Shavings," a really notable creation.

The windmill shop, too, is fascinating in its atmosphere. Children would adore seeing it. I have roamed the Cape a good deal and seen hundreds of Cape Cod windmills of various shapes and designs, but I never saw a windmill factory myself until last night.

As I said above, "Shavings" is old fashioned in its idea, its plot is particularly naive and guileless. Jed's love affair with the beautiful and mysterious widow is a charming idyll. And of course the heart interest is piled on with a ladle. But it is its locale, and its picturesque characters which make people like the piece.

The heroine of "Shavings" is a stately young woman who looks and talks like Elsie Ferguson. Ethel Downie, who plays the child, is a Lilipution, but a good little actress.

Other Theatres

PARK THEATRE—Dorothy Dalton, in one of her best pictures, "His Wife's Friend," started the very fine bill being shown at the Park Theatre this week. On Wednesday and Thursday, Wallace Reid will be seen in a comedy picture, "Hawthorne of the U. S. A."; Hobart Bosworth in "Behind the Door" will be the feature on Friday and Saturday.

MODERN AND BEACON—"The Law of the Yukon," which opened at the Modern and Beacon Theatres yesterday, deals with the early days of the great Northwest and the establishment of its first daily paper.

Enid Bennett, in "Hairpins," is seen as a household drudge who took a lesson from her husband's stenographer and blossomed out as a drawing room favorite.

GAYETY THEATRE—Sam Howe's "Jollities of 1920" at the Gayety Theatre is a show with a kick in it. Cliff Bragdon and Sammy Howard produce the strongest current of fun, but there are flashes of talent by other members of the cast, both male and female. The chorus is lively and of pleasing voice.

WALDRON'S CASINO — Cleverly mixed music, comedy and entertaining specialties make the Golden Crook company at Waldron's Casino, all the week, a most entertaining burlesque offering. There are many and varied features with this popular attraction, including William Bence and his pleasing Chinese specialty; the three aces of comedy, Jack Callahan, George Broadhurst and Billy Rand; Eva Sully, soubrette; Ann Myers, vocalist, and the famous Slatko Frollickers.

BROADWAY THEATRE — South Boston's own million-dollar vaudeville and motion picture palace will open to the public Friday evening of this week at 6:30, the performance running continuously until 11 o'clock. After the opening night performances will be given continuously from 1:30 to 5:30 and 6:30 to 11 p. m. All attractions to be seen twice each, afternoon and evening. Featured on the motion picture program for the two opening days will be J. Warren Kerrigan in "The Green Flame," an exciting detective story.

COLUMBIA THEATRE—There is increasing patronage at Loew's Columbia Theatre, where the management is offering a brand new policy. Yesterday large audiences viewed an exceptional bill of five vaudeville acts and two feature photoplays, the latter being Dorothy Gish in "Remodelling Her Husband" and Holbrook Blinn in "The Ivory Snuff Box."

MALDEN AUDITORIUM—"At 9:45" was presented at the Malden Auditorium yesterday, as the offering for the season's second week of the Temple Players. This mystery drama by Owen Davis enjoyed considerable success while on tour, and provided a happy selection for the Temple Company in direct contrast to last week's comedy attraction. This play is full of delightful surprises magnified by the thrills it contains.

CODMAN SQUARE THEATRE—Manager Coyle, of the popular Codman Square Theatre, Dorchester, has arranged another extraordinary bill of vaudeville and photoplays. It includes four acts of vaudeville, with plenty of pep, in addition to a photodrama showing Corrine Griffith in "The Garter Girl."

SOMERVILLE THEATRE — A large number of prominent State and city officials, headed by Mayor Charles W. Eldredge attended the inauguartion of the stock season of the Somerville players, last evening, at the Somerville theatre. An overflow audience witnessed a remarkable presentation of Oliver Morosco's supreme comedy triumph, "Civilian Clothes." Each member of the cast, which headed by several notable favorites of last season such as Anne Bronaugh, Carrol Ashburn, and John Gordon, were accorded a hearty reception upon their appearance.

CRESCENT GARDENS—The week opened at Crescent Gardens, Revere Beach, last night with a large and happy throng in attendance, and the splendid exhibition dancing of the popular "Billie and Gertrude Gallagher" was much appreciated.

The biggest event of the season will be staged Wednesday night, when Jackson's famous Black and White Jazz Orchestra, will play in a battle of music with the Crescent Gardens Singing Orchestra.

COMEDY OPENS HOLLIS ST. THEATRE

Opening the season at the newly decorated Hollis Street Theatre this week is that delightful comedy, "Three Wise Fools." It is scoring quite as big a hit as it did during its Boston engagement last season. And the cast is the same.

"Three Wise Fools" is rightly billed "a comedy of mirth, master minds and mystery." To this should be added, "providing laughs galore." It has to do with three bachelors who have made their marks in the world and are suffering from "ruts." Claude Gillingwater, as the financier; Harry Davenport, as the doctor, and Howard Gould, as the judge, portray their parts admirably and they are well received.

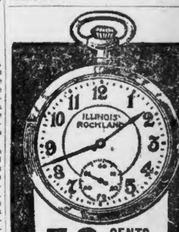

Special mention should be given Hazel Sexton, who takes the part of Miss Fairchild, the daughter of an old love of the "three musketeers." She has been willed to them by her mother and the way she brings them out of the mental grooves they have allowed themselves to follow, is a clever piece of acting. Police and fugitive convicts are brought into the plot to make things exciting and full of suspense.

Then there is Donald Foster, nephew of the financier. His is the role of hero and he seems destined to continue on his flight of stardom. The minor parts are well fitted.

The Hollis has been made one of the handsomest theatres in America. A new stage has been laid and a new velvet curtain and handsome new art drop curtains have been hung.

Stocks Strong in New York at Noon; Call Loans Renew at 8%; Foreign Exchange Steady

RAIL ISSUES ARE STRONG

Report "Waldorf Crowd" Has Made Considerable Profit Speculating in Cotton

By BROADAN WALL.

Registered U. S. Patent Office.

New York, Aug. 31.—Stocks closed irregular yesterday after a session in which some of the rails were particularly strong. The whole market was fairly active and strong in the afternoon in spite of an 8 per cent. renewal rate. But in the last hour call money went to 10 per cent., and the market closed in the midst of a slight reaction caused by this rate.

The fact that the market could be so strong in the face of such a high money rate attracted much attention. It was said that the group of speculators known as the Waldorf crowd had made considerable money in cotton on the short side and was accumulating stocks again.

Strike of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit men, and the indictment of forty steamship companies failed to dampen the optimism of the street. Even the weakened condition of the money market as disclosed by the Federal reserve statement for the twelve banks had no effect.

TRADERS ARE BUYING.

Wall Street believes that everything bad has been discounted. It believes that the Federal reserve board will by the end of this week have taken action to stop the profiteering in money rates. Therefore, traders are buying in anticipation of a better market.

Baltimore & Ohio was aggressively strong because as a freight road it [illegible] gained from the rate advance. Railroad statisticians expect that the company will earn 12 per cent. on its common stock in the next twelve months. Besides it owns a lot of Reading.

Union Pacific was another strong stock, acting really better than Southern Pacific. Erie 1st preferred was almost buoyant.

EXCHANGE FIRM FAILS.

Announcement was made of the failure of a New York stock exchange firm. There is no excuse for any New York stock exchange firm to fail. The only reason such firms fail is that their partners speculate. The New York Stock Exchange protects its members from such failures by making them preferred creditors of one another.

RAILS FEATURE THE MARKET

Several Low-Priced Carriers Sell at Highest Prices for the Year

By W. H. ROSS, Financial Editor.

Stocks were strong in New York at noon, with rails the feature. A number of low-priced carriers sold at new highs for the year. They were Baltimore & Ohio, Chesapeake & Ohio, St. Louis & San Francisco and St. Louis & Southwestern. The majority of industrials were up and tobaccos were a strong gorup. Sugars were firm, motors were irregular and so were steels.

Equipments made gains as a class and oils ruled higher. Advances were not large, ranging from fractions to about two points. The market was active, first hour transactions approximating 140,000 shares. Call loans renewed at 8 per cent. Foreign exchange was steady, rates showing little change.

IMPROVED AFTER OPENING.

Irregular at the opening, prices improved quickly, and at the end of a half-hour the market was strong. Rails were the strongest and most active issues in early trading. Some oils and a number of steels were a little lower at the start, but they recovered and showed gains soon. The market was livelier than at the opening on Monday. Covering operations were its main source of strength this morning. The stamina displayed by stocks with the money rate as high as 10 per cent. and following the calling of loans on considerable scale caused surprise. Most of the gains were small during the first hour, only a few issues advancing a point. But the tone was good, and there was more support for industrials. St. Louis & Southwestern was a rail to sell at its highest for the year. There is talk of "speculative combinations" being interested in this and a number of other low-priced roads. Carriers which made the best showing at the outset today included St. Paul, Southern Pacific and Union Pacific. Canadian Pacific became strong after the opening. It sold ex-dividend.

CROP MONEY PROVIDED.

The statement of John J. Mitchell, Chicago banker, that ample provision has been made for financing crop moving was not only reassuring to business, but received much Wall Street attention, as this gentleman is regarded as a spokesman for Western bankers. After agricultural needs have been cared for funds should flow West to East in large amounts. That largely accounts for hope in this section of an easier money situation later in the year. Harvests will be so large that Western sentiment contrasts sharply with Eastern gloom. Industrial depression accounts for the latter. In some quarters it is believed that the present is the darkest hour. Although not generally appreciated, the transportation situation is improving and will soon have a marked influence upon credits. The thawing-out process has been slow but steady for a month or more.

Kennecott Copper Output

July copper production by the Kennecott Copper Co. was 10,656,000 pounds as compared with 10,120,000 during June, this year, and 5,873,000 during July, 1919.

Corporation Reports

For 1919 the corporation income account of the Alabama Great Southern shows net income after charges and taxes of $1,246,180, equal after preferred dividends to $6.47 a share on $7,830,000 common stock, against $1,179,423, or $5.95 a share, in the preceding year.

The report for 1919 of the Prairie Oil & Gas Co. shows total resources of $130,208,997, against $117,955,759 in the preceding year, and profit and loss surplus of $79,912,531, against $70,443,441.

For the six months ended June 30, Replogle Steel net earnings amounted to $224,629, equivalent to 89 cents a share on the 250,000 shares outstanding.

Cotton Market Opening

New York, Aug. 31.—There was an active local, Liverpool and New Orleans selling at the opening of the cotton market, causing a decline of 15 to 45 points in the initial figures. Weather reports were all discouraging and buying power was light. At the end of twenty minutes the market was weak and fully 60 points under last night's close. Opening prices were: September, 28.55; October, 27.40; December, 25.40; January, 24.75; March, 24.50; May, 24.15; July, 23.95.

New York Sub-Treasury Loss

New York, Aug. 31.—The sub-treasury lost $992,000 to the banks on Monday, making the cash net loss since Friday $80,000.

LOCAL MARKET IS SLUGGISH

Many Issues Open Unchanged in Boston and Morning Movement Is Irregular

Most issues opened unchanged when business began on the Boston Exchange, and trading was as sluggish as the price movement. Where there were fluctuations, gains and losses were about evenly divided. They ruled small during the morning. Calumet & Arizona gained 1¼, while Mexican Investment receded 1½ to its year's previous low. Other changes up to late in the morning were fractional. The market was dull and without a single enlivening feature.

Stocks to make small gains included New Haven, Old Dominion, Davis Daly and United Shoe. Small losses were sustained by Ahmeek, Copper Range, Ventura, Shawmut Steamship, Swift International and Bigheart.

CURB VERY QUIET.

The Curb market had a regulation opening, being very quiet as to trading and mixed as to trend. It showed no alteration in either respect during the forenoon. Leaders were Eureka, Crystal and Boston and Montana. The last named opened higher, while the two former declined. Verde Mines and Arizona Silvers were up at the opening, while Denbigh was off.

At the end of an hour Boston and Montana was up 1 cent at 90 cents, and Bagdad 1 cent at 25 cents, while Crystal was off 1 cent at 38 cents and Eureka 5 cents at 32 cents. Denbigh had recovered its loss.

BOSTON FINANCIAL NOTES.

The White Oil Corporation has brought in No. 3 well on the Sellars lease in the northern Peabody field of Kansas, and it is flowing 700 barrels a day on the pump.

The cross cut south on the fourth level of the Superior & Boston property has cut the Rugby vein to its proper location and assays show it to be two feet wide, running 13 per cent. copper and 50 ounces of silver. This makes three veins with product of commercial ore, out of eight that are being prospected.

The Town of Brookline has awarded a $100,000 loan, dated Sept. 1 and payable Nov. 30, in anticipation of taxes, to Estabrook & Co. at 5.93 per cent. discount, plus $2.50 premium.

Newly chartered Massachusetts corporations include the Chaffee Corporation, of Gardner, capital $100,000; Keans Transportation Co., of Boston, capital $150,000; Old Colony Products Co., of Fall River, capital $100,000.

North Adams, Mass., has awarded the $50,000 loan in anticipation of revenue, dated Aug. 30 and payable Nov. 4, to North Adams Savings Bank at 5.95 per cent discount.

In connection with the statement that the plant of the Endicott Johnson Corporation is running as full as the vacation season permits is taken by a local financial publication to indicate "that dealers' stocks have been depleted and they are buying on a hand-to-mouth basis to take care of immediate needs—which are large. This is believed to be a forerunner to booking of forward business on a larger scale."

The Commissioners of Essex County have awarded the $100,000 Tuberculosis Hospital Loan Act of 1916 notes dated Sept. 1, 1920, and payable Sept. 1, 1921, to the Commonwealth Trust Co. of Boston at 6 per cent.

The July profit after all deductions by the Eastern Steamship lines amounted to $163,488, but there is still a deficit of $378,426 to be overcome before any earnings can accrue on the preferred stocks from 1920 operations.

Dividend Declarations

Pierce-Arrow Motor Car Co. declared quarterly dividend of 2 per cent. on preferred, payable October 1 to holders of record September 15.

Niagara Falls Power Co. declared quarterly dividend of $1.50 a share on common, payable September 15 to holders of record September 8, and quarterly dividend of $1.75 a share on preferred, payable October 15 to holders of record September 20.

American Beet Sugar declared quarterly dividend of 1½ per cent. on preferred, payable October 2 to holders of record September 11.

LOOKING FOR LOWER COMMODITY PRICES

John J. Mitchell, a leading Western banker, talked in a cheerful strain in Chicago after he returned from a recent trip to New York. He said Western bankers had made ample provision for the moving of crops, and he also stated that there would be no real dearth of money for essential and legitimate industry. He said:

"Practically all the men with whom I talked believe commodities will be considerably cheaper soon. Silk, leather, sugar and rice simply came a bit earlier because of particular conditions. Everything points to an ample supply of all the necessities of life.

"Money rates will continue firm, especially for stock market purposes, at least until after election. When the stringency ceases, I believe there will be broad public buying of railroad securities."

ADVERTISE YOUR WANTS IN THE BOSTON AMERICAN

SPICY FARCE BIG HIT AT PARK SQ.

At the Park Square last night, "Nightie Night," a farce by Martha M. Stanley and Adelaide Matthews, was given its first presentation in Boston. As a gloom dispeller it proved a huge success and without doubt it is the best of its kind seen in Boston for a long time.

"Nightie Night," as its name might suggest, is a bedroom play. But this time the bedroom is off stage. The bedroom accompaniments are not off stage, however, and the audience is treated to all the mirth provoking mixups that feature such nocturnal-staged plays, sans bed but not—sans bed apparel.

The plays centres around Billy Moffat, an acknowledged victim of circumstances, his petite, but jealous wife, an old flame and the latter's husband of a day.

Trixie Lorraine, in running away from her hour-old husband, naturally runs into her old sweetheart, Billy. It seems she had forgotten to inform her new husband of a few necessary happenings in her previous life; such details as a couple of former husbands and a little son Freddie.

Billy accepts the role of confessor and fixer-extraordinary, and promises to straighten things with her latest matrimonial acquisition, who happens to be his closest friend. But the Moffats are going to California. The job of sub-letting their apartment they leave to Mrs. Moffat's brother, and he makes an excellent job of it, too.

Of course it's Trixie who hires the flat. The Moffats are out and she instantly takes possession—for one night at least—of one part of it, the spare bedroom. Then complications and tangles follow in quick order. Clad only in her delicate-hued nighties—her only dress at the tailor's—the old flame finds herself in inextricable difficulties which are shared in no small way by Billy. But, like all good farces, the intricate and seemingly unexplainable tangles are all straightened out and, after a prologue and three acts, the complications are finally adjusted.

The principal parts of Billy and his old sweetheart are handled by Francis Byrne and Susanne Willa. Both show an adaptability for the screamingly humorous situations which are made all the more complex by the parts of the jealous wife and suspicious husband, played respectively by Theodora Warfield and Malcolm Duncan. The remaining characters are excellently cast.

Plays That Remain

SHUBERT—"Kissing Time," the bon bon melody play produced by the Empire Producing Corporation, began its last week in Boston at the Shubert Theatre last evening, to a very good audience.

WILBUR THEATRE—"Irene," the delightful little shop girl who blossoms into a real lady, is packing the Wilbur as never before in its history. The advance sales of seats for the coming month indicates a record for Boston.

ARLINGTON THEATRE—The current week marks the last of the limited engagement of the ever-popular comedy, "Turn to the Right," at the Arlington Theatre. Theatre-goers seem never to tire of this sterling play of the reformation of three young crooks.

MAJESTIC THEATRE—"The Little Whopper" goes merrily on its way at the Majestic Theatre and seats are now selling for the third week of its engagement, including the Labor Day matinee.

TREMONT TEMPLE—Despite the fact that many of the principal cities throughout New England have contracted for "Shipwrecked Among Cannibals," the sensational film now running at Tremont Temple, the management has been obliged to defer these engagements and keep the picture in Boston.

MANY GOOD ACTS ON ORPHEUM BILL

It is not often that an amusement seeker has the opportunity to witness and enjoy entertainment of the exceptional variety afforded patrons of Loew's Orpheum Theatre this week, for every act might rightfully be referred to as a "headline" number. Large audiences yesterday enthusiastically applauded every act.

Following the showing of the latest comedy and Orpheum News, depicting the latest world events, Conn and Whiting, two clever comedians, opened the variety bill with a melange of eccentricities.

They were followed by Billy Layden, the joyful songologist, and Menners and Lowerse, the clever pair of entertainers, in "A Song Flirtation."

"Business Is Business," a smart and captivating playlet, was well done by Hawley, Howard and company, while Slager and James, the black-faced comedians, and the Cromwells, in a whirlwind conglomeration, concluded the vaudeville program.

Miss Constance Binney, brilliant star of stage and screen, was then shown in "39 East," being the dramatization of the popular comedy of like name, in which she appeared on the legitimate stage last season.

On Thursday the program will be entirely changed and H. B. Warner will be shown in "The Hour Before Dawn," in addition to new vaudeville offerings.

"Aida" Tomorrow Night

Tomorrow night at Braves Field, the great open-air performance of Verdi's opera "Aida" will be given. Rehearsals have been held at the Field for several days and have revealed remarkable acoustic properties in the big park. The roof of the grand stand catches sound like the horn of a phonograph and the slightest sound is distinctly heard in the rear rows. In the cast of "Aida," which is held in honor of the Pilgrim Tercentenary, will be Marie Rappold, soprano; Cyrena Van Gordon, contralto; Orville Harrold, tenor; Clarence Whitehall, baritone; Pietro de Biasi, basso, and Natale Cervi, basso. There will be a chorus of one thousand, an orchestra of one hundred and twenty-five and an ensemble of two thousand in the great pageant scene.

Coming Events

PLYMOUTH THEATRE—Mrs. Jimmie Thompson, the brilliant society favorite, will entertain the soldiers from the Parker Hill Hospital at the opening matinee performance at the Plymouth Theatre on Labor Day.

ALINGTON THEATRE—Cecil Lean, remembered for his many successes in the musical comedy field, will play a return engagement at the Arlington Theatre Monday (Labor Day) matinee, September 6, in his musical play, "Look Who's Here," with Cleo Mayfield in chief support. Among others who make up the cast are Julia Gifford, Sylvia De Frankie, Walter Armin, Edwin Rogers, Mario Villani, Stanley Warner and William Howard.

SHUBERT THEATRE — William Harris, Jr., will present "East is West" at the Sam S. Shubert Theatre next Monday evening, September 6th, with Fay Bainter in the leading role of Ming Toy, who will make her first appearance in Boston, although she has been a reigning favorite on Broadway for several season.

GLOBE THEATRE—The box office of the Globe Theatre will open today for the sale of seats for "Pitter Patter," a new musical comedy, with which the house will begin its new season and change of policy next Monday night. "Pitter Patter" is based on "Caught in the Rain," William Collier's and Grant Stewart's famous farce. William B. Friedlander wrote the music and lyrics and Will M. Hough the book.

McDONNELL FOUGHT ANTI-STRIKE BILL

The following letter from Charles J. Hodsdon, legislative agent of the Massachusetts State Branch of the American Federation of Labor, was made public by Representative William H. McDonnell of South Boston:

"Mr. William Walsh, Secretary Street Carmen's Union, No. 589, Boston, Mass.:

"Dear Sir and Brother—Your letter of August 25 addressed to Secretary Martin T. Joyce has been received by him and referred to me for an answer. You asked for the position and activity of Representative William H. McDonnell of Boston in regard to the bill at the special session of the Legislature denying members of the Street Carmen's Union the right to strike.

"I am very glad to state that he took a manly position on that legislation. I had a talk with him before the Committee on Legal Affairs had heard the bill and he told me frankly that he would appear before the committee as a member of the special commission and speak against it. He also assured me that the legislation would be killed if it were within his power to do so. He did as he said he would do in both instances.

"Insofar as the Massachusetts State Branch is concerned, his position was right on that measure, and we appreciate the same. Fraternally yours. (Signed)

"CHARLES J. HODSDON,
"Legislative Agent."

MOTHER PLEADS FOR RETURN OF HER SON

Mrs. Tillis Greengros of No. 350 Allston street, Cambridge, has appealed to the Boston American for aid in locating her son Samuel, age 14, who disappeared on March 23. Her son's absence has caused Mrs. Greengros to suffer a nervous collapse.

The boy is 5 feet, two inches in height, weighs 125 pounds, has light hair, blue eyes and a light complexion.

Norumbega Park

Georges Carpentier, the heavyweight champion and idol of Europe, in "The Wonder Man" is the picture being shown at the Norumbega Park Theatre all this week every afternoon and evening. Besides the concert orchestra there will be other musical attractions, including Mildred Parker, violinist; Francis and Love, vocalists; and the Australian La Merta, pianologue and imitations.

Col. House Tells the World Truths We Should Heed

Evidently Colonel House and the White House have parted company.

Mr. Wilson is doing his best to keep Europe from settling down to peace and work by encouraging the French, the Poles and the Wrangel outfit to continue warring upon Russia.

Colonel House shows higher statesmanship by saying, very truly, that a continuation of this warfare will be disastrous and probably fatal to Europe.

In the course of his statement, published at The Hague, Colonel House says:

It is probable that the present extraordinary situation was brought about by the FRANK AVOWAL OF THE WESTERN POWERS TO TRY AND DESTROY THE KIND OF GOVERNMENT WHICH A LARGE PART OF THE RUSSIAN PEOPLE HAD DECIDED UPON.

And Colonel House says further:

In this warfare of ideas we find the East (Russia) relying almost wholly upon propaganda, and the Western Powers almost wholly upon force.

These are true words and wise words. It is a pity that Mr. Wilson ceased to lean upon Colonel House for information and guidance in foreign relations.

If we are to think straight and act sensibly we must look at facts as they are.

The facts are that the Russian Soviet Government has made war upon nobody, has committed no aggression upon anybody's territory, has attempted no conquests of other peoples and has resorted to arms in every case only to beat off armed attacks made upon Russia.

At every stage of its wars of self defense the Russian Government has constantly reiterated its anxiety to make peace upon any terms that would leave Russian territory free of invasion.

British, French, American, German, Austrian and Polish troops, in turn, have attacked Russia. And Russia has fought back.

As Colonel House truly says, the Western Powers, with the illegal and unauthorized aid of American troops, have resorted to FORCE, while the Russian Soviets have relied upon propaganda of their ideas.

Now, FORCE never did and never will destroy IDEAS.

Ideas are destroyed only by proof that they are WRONG ideas.

If they are WRONG ideas they will perish through counter-argument and failure.

If they are RIGHT ideas they will live in spite of all the cannon and bayonets that can be brought against them.

All history teaches that lesson, and the White House ought to study it and learn wisdom.

Violence Contempt of Court of Public Opinion

Without taking sides either for employer or employed, the average American citizen must conclude that a state of industry where such a condition is possible as prevailed during the recent war in Denver is intolerable.

If a street car company, a factory, or any other concern cannot conduct its business in any other way than by violence and bloodshed it is not to the public interest that such concern should be allowed to continue in business.

And if a labor union, or any organization of workers, can gain the ends it believes to be right only by riot and destruction, then such organization cannot be tolerated in a civilized community.

This is no time nor place for throwing charges back and forth, for blaming one party or the other, for declaring that the fault all lies in the greed and tyranny of capital or in the greed and tyranny of the organizers of labor.

Perhaps there is truth in both condemnations.

It is not the business of Government to interfere. Its business is purely and solely to see that the two contestants play fair, and that in their dispute they do not injure the innocent bystanders.

When a corporation goes to shooting or falsely imprisoning workers, and equally when workers go to burning shops or wrecking offices or murdering strikebreakers, they cease, both parties, to be enemies to each other and become enemies to the State, to civilization, to every man, woman and child in the nation.

The better element in the labor unions know this and are opposed to violence. The better element among employers likewise regret any intolerance or tyranny, knowing such a policy to be shortsighted.

The worst part of it all is that when law is abandoned it is the worker who suffers. Law is his friend. It is his bulwark. It is his only hope.

Every agency that can in the least aid in molding public opinion, therefore, should assist in strengthening the basic creed of Americanism and civilization among all classes, that—

Respect for Law is the Foundation of Liberty.

When two parties to a suit in court take to fisticuffs or pistols they are both promptly fined for contempt of court.

LETTING THE CHILDREN JOIN IN CONVERSATION

When your child asks a question, do not put him off by saying: "Oh, don't bother me now, I haven't time to explain to you, and you would not understand if I did explain."

Your child is going to gain the information he or she sets out to get, and your refusal to discuss it only whets the interest.

You make a mistake to say to the child that you would not be understood if you did explain, for any child takes pride in his own intelligence and likes to have the big folk feel he is able to grasp the meaning of what is said.

Have you noticed how your child tries to take part in the family discussions at your home and wants to be included in matters discussed with their guests?

It is not mere curiosity but mutual understanding which the child hopes to establish with the grownups.

The subject on the carpet may not be interesting, but the idea of being an important member of the family makes the child feel that a part of the general conversation should include him.

More Truth Than Poetry

The Neglected Boy

By S. E. KISER

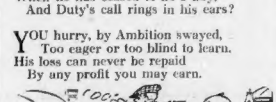

THE little boy whom you forgot,
While seeking profit here or there,
Has fancies that are sinless yet,
Still kneels to lisp his evening prayer;
But he will lose his childish ways
And you will learn to sit alone,
Recalling precious, wasted days,
And missing joys you've never known.

YOU have deprived him of the dear
And wise companionship he needs,
You never pause with him to hear
The breeze that sings among the reeds;
You never rush with him in wild
Adventure through the fairies' glen,
Yourself again a romping child,
And undisturbed by selfish men.

HE never climbs upon your knee,
Delighted, at the long day's end,
To find that you have time to be
His glad and sympathetic friend.
You must be always pressing on,
Forgetting, while you scheme and plan,
How soon his childhood will be gone,
How quickly he will be a man.

HAVE you no treasured memories
Of one whose arm encircled you
When life was full of ecstasies
And all the world was bright and new?
Why do you rob him of the joy
Of looking back along the years
When he has ceased to be a boy,
And Duty's call rings in his ears?

YOU hurry, by Ambition swayed,
Too eager or too blind to learn.
His loss can never be repaid
By any profit you may earn.

OH, YES, CERTAINLY

Japan is investing $84,000,000 in warships just for the building practice, no doubt.

A PLEA FOR PURE REASONABLENESS.

The mathematicians have found that the increase in freight rates will make it cost only 1 cent a pound more to ship meat from Chicago to New York than it did under the former rate. This being the case, it ought not to be necessary for the retailer to add more than 20 cents a pound to his prices.

Letters to the Editor

America First

Editor Boston American:

I am greatly in favor of Irish Independence, but I am entirely like most Americans, against electing men into Congress who are more Irish than American.

Mr. Tague of Charlestown is thrown down at nearly every rally by his opponents. Why? Because he is more American than he is Irish. He believes in America first, and that's the man that should be elected to Congress from the tenth district.

AN EX-GOB.

Needs a Telephone

Editor Boston American:

Knowing that your Boston American, and all your newspapers, wherever they are printed, take a big interest in public affairs, and are always working for the welfare of the people, and knowing that when you start something you go through with it to the finish, I would therefore suggest an investigation as to what seems to be the reason (and whether it can be improved) why the telephone company does not install or promise a telephone before next Summer. We have moved recently and it so happens that I am in business and have a sick person in the house and it is almost impossible to get along without a telephone.

A READER.

Asks Aid for Ireland

Editor Boston American:

I am writing you, an American of four generations in this good old U. S. A., which we do not half appreciate, to urge you to aid through Hearst's papers the cause of Erin, which daily goes from bad to worse. It is the case of Germany and Belgium over again. We went to aid Belgium. Cannot something be done to aid this down-trodden country? Cannot the leaders at Washington see the state of affairs? Now, I am not pleading for war with England, like so many pro-Britishers think all friends of the Irish are doing. I merely plead that something be done to stop what is going on and what is sure to become a thousand times worse. Please see if something at least cannot be done to waken the officials at Washington. They are too interested in affairs in Russia and other countries which compare in no way with Ireland's trouble.

By K. C. B.

My Dear K. C. B.—I've felt the urge and I have written no end of short stories. I've followed the advice of whoever it was who said: "If at first you don't succeed, try, try again," but all to no avail. The publishers won't listen to me. Haven't you a word for me?

AGNES M.

MY DEAR Agnes.
WHOEVER IT was.
WHO SAID that thing.
ABOUT IF at first.
YOU DON'T succeed.
TO KEEP on trying.
WAS PROBABLY right.
BUT HE should have added.
"IF AFTER awhile.
"YOU DON'T succeed.
"TRY SOMETHING else."
AND I don't mean.
THAT YOU should think.
I HAVE an idea.
THAT YOU can't write.
BECAUSE MAYBE you can.
AND I wouldn't suggest.
THAT YOU give it up.
FOR WHO can tell.
BUT THAT some day.
YOU MAY succeed.
BUT I'VE known folk.
WHO TRIED to write.
AND WERE very sure.
THAT THE editors.
WERE ALL in league.
TO KEEP them down.
AND AFTER awhile.
THEY'D GIVE it up.
AND THEN discover.
THEY WERE very good salesmen.
OR MAYBE plumbers.
OR SOME such thing.
AND IF I were you.
BEFORE I got old.
I'D SAY to myself.
IS THERE anything, else.
"THAT I can do.
"AND MAKE others admit.
"I CAN do it well?"
AND IF there is.
I'D TRY it out.
AND ANYWAY, Agnes.
IN THE writing game.
IF YOU'RE going to get by.
YOU DON'T have to "try."
YOU JUST sit down.
AND GO to work.
AND IF it's in you.
IT'S GOING to come out.
AND IF it isn't.
WHY OF course it isn't.

I THANK you.

REFORM IN SCHOOLS NEEDED TODAY

By W. J. Shearer,

Educational Expert, Elizabeth, N. J.

OUR schools are the most important factor in the life of the individual, family, city and nation. Their importance is so great that every intelligent citizen should be deeply interested in their work and continually give consideration to what they are accomplishing for the children whose sole future destiny is so largely determined by the character of the service they render.

At this time of year, especially, every parent and friend of the children and free institutions should take time to examine conditions, measure results, discover shortcomings and urge such improvements as will increase school efficiency and make more certain individual success and national security.

The objects for which the schools exist are to give all at least an elementary education, to fit each for the work he is best fitted to perform, and to prepare for civic responsibility.

No Elementary Training

The completion of the eight elementary grades merely requires the ability to read the daily paper, spell words in common use, solve the simplest problems of everyday life, and have a slight knowledge of other subjects.

The official records prove that not one-half of the pupils ever get even this much of an elementary education; that, of those getting thus far, many are not thorough in essentials; that the rate of advancement is so slow that nearly all are from one to five years behind their proper grades; that four out of five have been branded as "dullards" so often that they are not receiving the education that is their birthright.

Cause of Conditions

The cause is not that the pupils are naturally "dull," "laggard" or "mentally defective," as it has been made to appear. It cannot be blamed on teachers or principals; for never before have they had such thorough preparation for effective work.

The real cause of the unfortunate conditions is the lack of thoroughness in essential subjects; and the constant holding back of all to the pace of the slowest.

The responsibility rests upon the plan of grading. In methods and results it does not differ from the first graded school founded almost four hundred years ago. It has long since been condemned by common sense, science and pedagogy. It is not time that this ancient practice, which, regardless of thoroughness, binds all to the slow, be abandoned, and replaced by a modern plan which will secure thoroughness at every step and permit each to advance according to ability?

Stars and Stripes

The married man is no younger than his wife will allow him to be.

What we want to know is: Are there any traffic cops in the sky? Going to Heaven will become hazardous if not.

Perhaps some day there will be a college which will use its income to hire good teachers at a just price, instead of investing so much in showy buildings.

Some day a rich man will foil the lawyers and inheritance tax collectors by disposing of his surplus before he dies.

"Whisky at $1.50 a drink," predicts the chief prohibition enforcement officer. Better economize by cultivating the water taste.

A woman at Atlantic City was stricken by heart disease at golf at the same time that a New York fan was expiring of excitement over "Babe" Ruth's forty-third home run. For safety try dominoes.

The Bear didn't climb the Pole. It was greased.

"Independent" Egypt will have a British veto over "legislation affecting foreigners." Trust the exploiters to protect their own.

Sixteen days after the fracas at the Lambs in New York, nobody has been arrested, apparently nobody knows who sold the whiskey. Likewise, apparently nobody cares.

WHY BODIES IN THE SKY REMAIN APART

By Garrett P. Serviss

According to the law of attraction, why do not all the bodies in the universe come together in a common centre?—A. J. O'N."

WE are unable to go back to the origin of the universe. But, taking it as we see it, we find that the bodies composing it are moving in many directions, with various velocities, and are assembled in very unequal numbers in different regions of space.

Although they must all exert a gravitational "pull" upon one another, varying inversely as the square of the distances between them, yet there is no evidence that they are all tending inward toward a common centre.

Theoretical Centre

There may be, theoretically, a gravitational centre of the entire universe, not, however, a central body, but its location is unknown to us, while its existence does not require the falling together toward that point of all the constituents of the starry systems.

They keep away from one another, so to speak, in the same manner in which the earth keeps from falling into the sun, although continually urged by the sun's attraction. The earth's safety is due to its tangential motion, and so with the stars. But we can give no definite explanation of the origin of such motion.

Structure of Universe

If you imagine the universe suddenly created out of nothing by the formation of condensing nuclei, each of which becomes a star, and if all of these are exactly equal, and all symmetrically located in a spherical space, and subject only to the motion developed by their mutual attractions, you can readily picture them as eventually coming together in a spherical mass.

But suppose that these nuclei are unevenly scattered through space, and are unequal in mass or gravitation power—here a relatively huge individual, yonder a swarm of smaller stars, in some regions vast empty gaps of space and in other regions crowded but unequal assemblages of bodies—in such a case, even though no motion existed except that produced by the mutual attraction of all these diverse masses, the result, it is easy to see, could not be a regular falling together at the centre of the entire system, as in the first case.

Principles

IT is not what you can do ordinarily, but what you can do in a crisis, that counts. The crisis is the swift fire that tries men, as gold is tried, revealing the fine metal and the dross. You never know what is in the soul until you see it pass through a supreme moment.

That unmasks the hero, uncovers the god. He may have seemed a tramp, a shiftless loafer, a ne'er-do-well, but when the factory takes fire and all are paralyzed with fear, it is he that plunges into the burning building and rescues the boy at the cost of his own life.

She may have been a most drab and commonplace woman, ignorant and low, but when her hour strikes she moves towards it with the majesty of a queen and cares for those stricken with the pest in fine carelessness for her own life. . . .

The fierce rays of responsibility all focused into one white-hot moment have a curious effect on souls. One person will be melted to panic. Another will be steeled to unusual strength. . . .

In the crisis you suddenly become aware of the vital importance of principles.—Dr. Frank Crane in September Hearst's.

A Case of Brain Fag

The modern stage "show lady" usually has nothing to do but look beautiful. In a certain production, one of these ladies was entrusted with a line to speak. She was absent for a night or two, and meeting her on her return a comedian inquired the reason. "Oh, I've been ill, very ill," replied the damsel. "I'm sorry to hear that; what was the matter?" With ill-concealed self-importance, the "show lady" answered, "Brain fag."
